Student Grants, Vouchers System Bills Filed

Two Parochial School Aid Plans Proposed

TELEPHONE TROUBLE—Carrying his bicycle on his shoulder, a passerby inspects an overturned telephone company car in New York. Striking workers demonstrated outside Gov. Rockefeller's office, then marched through midtown Manhattan overturning the car, smashing ing windows and scuffling with police. Eight of the marchers, who numbered 1,000 at one point, were arrested. The workers have been on strike since July 14. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Roman Catholic educators Gunning of Queens would use a voucher system to funnel state aid into both public and non-public schools.

Parents would submit vouchers for each child in school, and the school would redeem the vouchers for money.

Mrs. Gunning said she believes such a system would be constitutional because "it avoids any surveillance, direction or entanglement by the state."

One of the arguments the courts used in rejecting the aid plan was that because the money was to go only for non religious activities, administering it involved state surveillance of the parochial schools, and therefore "excessive entanglement" between state and religion.

The Rev. John Keefe, education director for the Albany diocese, said that unless the state finds a way to get around the decision there will have to be a "severe cut" in school services. The Albany diocese stands to lose $1 million in state aid, he said.

Father Brent in Rochester and the Rev. Msgr. Thomas J. Costello, school superintendent for the seven-county Syracuse diocese, both said that the decision was expected and that their school systems had planned accordingly.

The ruling is "not going to affect the plans of the diocese at the present time," Father Costello said.

The eight-county Buffalo diocese will lose about $2 million because of the decision, said the Rev. Msgr. Leo E. Hamerl, superintendent of the Catholic schools there. Since the money has already been set aside in the state budget, he added, the legislature should enact new measures to permit its expenditure in constitutional ways.

Anti-parochial aid groups, which have conducted a long campaign against the state assistance, applauded Tuesday's court decision.

Thomas Y. Hobart, president of the New York State Teachers Association, said the ruling "reinforces a basic, constitutional right of the state (to) the separation of private and public education and continued quality programs for all the state's children."

Mrs. Naomi A. Cowen, chairman of Onondagas for Public Education and Religious Liberty, said in Syracuse that her group would oppose any attempt to circumvent the decision.

She suggested that the legislature divide the $33 million among the state's "Big Six" school districts.

In other news from Albany, the New York State Commission on Cultural Resources urged Wednesday that the state maintain its current level of support for the arts—$13 million—in the new fiscal year.

The recommendation was part of a five-point plan the commission offered designed to bolster the state's nonprofit cultural resources.

In fixing budgetary priorities for 1972-73, Gov. Rockefeller and the legislature must decide where to hold the line on expenditures and where to make cuts in the face of a chronic deficit. The new fiscal year begins April 1.

"Non-profit cultural organizations—museums, arts centers, orchestras, theaters, dance companies and community arts activities—are the base of a billion-dollar profit-making industry unique to New York State," noted Sen. William T. Conklin, R-Brooklyn, the commission chairman.

"The commission, recognizing the fiscal limitation of the state, urges continuation of the council's aid to cultural organizations at the present level of funding—$13 million," the group's interim report said.

The reference was to money distributed to cultural institutions by the State Council on the Arts in 1971-72. The first "emergency" appropriation of $18 million for faltering institutions was made in 1970-71.

At that time, the commission was created to study the long-range and current needs of the arts in New York. Its regular annual report is due in March.

Implications Seen In Court Decision

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Every metropolitan area in the country may yet find its city and suburban schools merged into one district for integration purposes as a result of this week's precedent-setting court ruling in Richmond, Va., according to civil rights lawyers.

In the Richmond decision, Federal District Court Judge Robert R. Merhige Jr. ordered county-city boundaries dissolved where schools are concerned, creating one big metropolitan district so that in-town black schools can be balanced with suburban white ones by busing and other means.

A group of civil rights lawyers, including William L. Taylor, former staff director for the U.S. Civil Rights Commission, told a news conference Wednesday the decision has vast implications.

"In my judgment," Taylor said, "no metropolitan area in the country is exempt."

He conceded there would be exceptions where state lines are involved—such as St. Louis, Mo., East St. Louis, Ill., and Washington, D.C., Virginia-Maryland. But he cited as examples of white suburban flight such cities as Newark, N.J., now 74 per cent black; Atlanta, Baltimore and St. Louis, all more than 60 per cent black; New York City, more than 50 per cent black and Puerto Rican; and Los Angeles, more than half black and Chicago.

The issue which prompted the Richmond decision, Taylor said, has already been raised or is being raised in cases involving Detroit, Indianapolis, Wilmington, Del.; Grand Rapids, Mich.; and the entire state of New Jersey.

Norman Chachkin of the NAACP Legal Defense Fund, and Louis Lucas, a Memphis, Tenn., lawyer who has worked with the LDF, agreed with Taylor, saying the Richmond decision is the likeliest immediate answer to the "white flight" that often follows desegregation.

Meanwhile, barriers to school desegregation continue to crumble in the South but remain solid in the North and are being rebuilt along the Mason-Dixon line, the government says.

The U.S. Office for Civil Rights released figures Tuesday showing that the 11 Southern states for the first time have fewer Negro pupils in all-black schools than does the North, and have widened the gap over the North in the number of blacks in predominantly white schools.

Integration virtually has halted in the last four years in the 32 Northern and Western states, the six border states and in the District of Columbia, the report discloses.

More surprising, however, the report shows the number of blacks in totally segregated schools increased during the last year in the border states of Delaware, Kentucky, Maryland, Missouri, Oklahoma and West Virginia and in D.C.

The rise, from 23.1 to 24.2 per cent, is not significant except that it marks a reversal from the trend elsewhere.

J. Stanley Pottinger, civil rights director, said he was puzzled by the evidence of re-segregation.

"I just don't know why," Pottinger said in an interview. "We're going to have to check it out."

He suggested that the border states have escaped the concentrated attention directed at the South over the years.

Skyjacking Attempt Fails, Narcotics Addict Captured

DALLAS (UPI)—FBI agents and police stormed a hijacked jetliner sitting on the main runway and captured a former mental patient who had demanded $2 million ransom, parachutes and eight box lunches for himself and the crew.

The drama ended Wednesday night about seven hours after the bright orange and red plane was seized by the self-admitted narcotics user.

"Today is the last day that I, Billy Gene Hurst, is going to exist," the hijacker told his captured crew. "Tomorrow a new individual will be born."

Hurst, 22, hijacked the plane Wednesday between Houston and Dallas. He permitted the 94 passengers to get off the plane when Flight 38 landed at Love Field at 2:50 p.m. But he held the crew—four hostesses and three men—until 8:51 p.m. when they escaped after noticing Hurst had been distracted by something in the rear of the plane.

Federal and city police stormed the plane and captured the hijacker at 9:26 p.m.

"We went on the plane and captured him," said Gordon Shanklin, special agent in charge of the FBI in Dallas.

The plane was surrounded by Washington (UPI)—President Nixon personally announced today he is withdrawing another 70,000 combat troops from South Vietnam, reducing U.S. Forces there to 69,900 by May 1.

Nixon also told newsmen at the White House that he will announce further troop withdrawal before the May 1 target date.

In response to questions, however, Defense Secretary Melvin Laird, who attended the news briefing, said the United States will not remove all forces from South Vietnam "until the POW situation is resolved."

Laird, who fielded all questions, said the administration planned to "meet or beat" that ceiling by the target date.

police and everybody, of course. He didn't come out so we went in and got him."

Hurst was charged with violating the U.S. code that deals with air piracy. He was denied bond because he was charged with a capital offense. He was held in the Dallas County Jail.

Hurst held the plane and its crew captive for six hours and 36 minutes. During this time he demanded $2 million, jungle survival gear, lunches, cigarettes, parachutes and a .357 Magnum pistol. The Republic National Bank, the city's largest, sent $1 million to the airport in small bills.

Hurst, a 5-foot-8, 220-pound former high school football player told his captive crew he had an IQ of 138—near genius level—and hated women. The brown-eyed, brown-haired Hurst, wearing a pin stripe suit and clutching a black zippered flight bag said to contain dynamite, handed a stewardess a note.

"I have some demands I want met," the note said. "Either you meet them or I'll kill everybody on the airplane."

HEADING FOR COURT—FBI agent escorts Billy Eugene Hurst, (L), 22, from the Dallas County jail enroute to federal court where he was charged with air piracy after he attempted to hijack a Braniff International jetliner with 102 persons aboard over Texas and forced the plane to land in Dallas and then demanded a $1 million ransom. Ex-State Senator Newcombe to Become City Voter

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON
Former Republican State Sen. Lloyd A. Newcombe of Catskill in Greene County has changed his voter registration to the City of Kingston in Ulster County leading to speculation that he may be contemplating seeking office again in one of the newly proposed senatorial districts under consideration for Ulster County.

Newcombe listed a Manor Avenue address in the city on his new registration. The Freeman learned today.

Under the new redistricting plan, the City of Kingston and Ulster County's southern area will be merged with Sen. Richard Schermerhorn's Orange County District. The balance of Ulster County will join with counties to the north to create an entirely new district without an incumbent.

Sen. Newcombe represented Ulster, Greene, Orange, Sullivan and Ulster Counties when he was a senator from 1966-67.

It was reapportionment in 1967 that split his district apart, separating Greene from Ulster, which became joined with Dutchess County.

Now, if political prognosticators are right, it will be the new reapportionment that will bring him back on the political scene again with the opportunity to campaign in familiar territory.

With the new redistricting of both the senatorial and assembly district and the soon to be devised congressional reapportionment, speculation concerning candidates for all three races is rampant with no declarations from anyone. Therefore, Newcombe's change of registration is looked upon as a significant one.

Special

Among those mentioned as senatorial possibilities for Ulster's two senatorial districts are: Kingston Democratic Mayor Francis R. Koenig, Republican Assemblyman H. Clark Bell, Republican County Chairman Albert Spada, GOP Attorney Michael E. Catalinotto, Republican Attorney Richard Griggs and Chairmen of the Ulster County Legislature Peter J. Savago.

Born in Catskill, Jan. 21, 1922, Newcombe was educated in Kingston Public Schools. He is presently vice president of Austin R. Newcombe Co., Inc. of Manor Avenue, Kingston, and president of Newcombe Cadillac-Pontiac Inc., Catskill as well as vice president of Amos Post Petroleum Dealers, Catskill.

He also attended Riverside

Military Academy, Gainesville, Ga., Haverford School, Haverford, Pa., Babson Institute of Business Administration, Wellesley Hills, Mass.

As state senator he served on the Commerce and Navigation Committee as its chairman, Banks, City of New York, Conservation and Recreation, Laboratory and Industry, Penal Institution and Public Utilities committees.

He has twice been president of the Catskill Chamber of Commerce and served two terms as president of the Catskill Board of Education. He has been a member of the board of directors of the Catskill National Bank, served on the board of managers of Memorial Hospital, Catskill, was president and founder of the Greene County Industrial Development Corporation and held membership in the board of Directors of Mid-Hudson Pattern for Progress and the board of Stiefel Laboratories, Inc., he was also area coordinator for Gov. Rockefeller's 1970 election campaign.

He is married to the former Barbara Matthews of Kingston.

MARTIN LUTHER KING DAY — Mayor Francis R. Koenig has proclaimed Saturday as Martin Luther King Day in Kingston. Discussing plans for the local observance are (L-R) the Rev. E. C. Morton, pastor of the Franklin Street AME Zion Church; the Rev. John H. Gilmore, pastor of Riverview Baptist Church and chairman of the city's Human Relations Commission; the Rev. James P. Veatch, pastor of Trinity United Methodist Church; Mayor Koenig and the Rev. George Baker, pastor of St. Mark's AME Church. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Martin Luther King Services Set

A number of observances are planned this weekend in connection with Martin Luther King Day.

Mayor Francis R. Koenig has proclaimed Saturday as the commemorative day in the City of Kingston. Memorial services will be held at the New Central Baptist Church, 229 East Strand, at 7 p.m. Saturday. Guest speaker for the service will be the Rev. Edward C. Morton, pastor of the Franklin Street AME Zion Church. The Rev. Jesse W. Kitchen is host pastor.

Arrangements for the service were made through the cooperation of the Kingston Human Relations Commission and local clergymen.

Music by area church choirs will be featured at the service. The Rev. John H. Gilmore, chairman of the Human Relations Commission, urged the public to attend.

The Rev. Mr. Gilmore who is pastor of Riverview Baptist Church, 240 Catherine Street, has planned a special observance at his church Sunday 11 a.m. Guest speaker at the community service will be

Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn, spiritual leader of Temple Emanuel. His topic will be "There Was a Man."

All Ulster County Community Action offices including the administrative office, service centers in Ellenville, Rosendale, Highland, Walkill and Saugerties will be closed between 12:30 and 1:30 p.m. Friday.

Savago Denies Indicating Favor On Leave for Ulster Professor

Peter J. Savago, chairman of the Ulster County Legislature, in a statement to The Freeman today, said that he has not indicated to the faculty Association of Ulster County Community College that he is in favor of the sabbatical leave for UCC professor Harry Matzen.

In a press release issued by the Faculty Association on Wednesday, it was noted that Savago and Brian White, (R-Dist. 9) chairman of the County Legislature's Community College Committee, both approved of Matzen's sabbatical request to study at the Sorbonne in Paris this year. The sabbatical request was subsequently not allowed by the college's Board of Trustees at its Jan. 6 meeting.

Savago said today that he never indicated to the Faculty Association that he was in favor of Matzen's sabbatical. "I have nothing to do with the matter," said Savago, "and I certainly have no authority to either approve or disapprove a sabbatical."

Theodore Dietz, president of the Faculty Association, told The Freeman, "Perhaps I misread something into what Mr. Savago told me, but I definitely know that he is in favor of upholding all of the provisions of the contract between the faculty and the county."

Dietz added, "I know Brian White is sympathetic and that contract."

White could not be reached for comment today.

There were few other new developments in the controversy over Matzen's sabbatical today. Dietz reiterated that the Faculty Association will undertake its "grievance procedure (against the County Legislature) first... and then explore the possibility of going to court and filing improper labor practices charges with P.E.R.B. (Public Employees Relations Board)."

In refusing Matzen's sabbatical request, the Board of Trustees stated that he did not file his application within the required six month period before the requested sabbatical is to begin. The Faculty Association contends that a six month notice is not required under terms of the present contract.

Appointments Debated in Esopus

By JON POWERS

PORT EWEN
The Esopus Town Board Wednesday staged an encore to its heated reorganizational meeting of last week, but this time more than 250 area residents occupied center stage.

The five-hour regular Board session was highlighted by the reappointment of a town constable, and the naming of a Town Attorney — two topics that created bitter debate between Republicans and Democrats.

John Manganiello, who was not reappointed to the town constabulary at last week's meeting, was appointed a special constable Wednesday night pending the formation of a Police Commission. Esopus Town Supervisor George Freer said that he expects the Police Commission to appoint Manganiello to full-time status.

According to Freer, Manganiello's appointment followed a lengthy discussion that saw most of the townspeople in attendance urge the Town Board to reconsider its earlier ruling.

Appointment of a Town Attorney, as opposed to an Attorney for the Town, also attracted intense debate.

The two-hour discussion was prompted by a motion submitted by the Republican majority of the Town Board to rescind an original resolution providing for a Town Attorney, and to create an original resolution providing for a Town Attorney, and to create an Attorney for the Town. That proposal drew sharp criticism from Freer and GOP Justice John O. Beaver, who has served on the Town Board for more than 25 years.

If the motion were approved, it would pave the way for appointment of an attorney from outside the township.

According to Freer, a number of residents spoke on the matter, with all favoring the Town Attorney system. "I told the Town Board that we'd stay there all night until we resolved this matter and appointed an attorney," said Freer. "We called a five minute recess, and after the recess the Republicans withdrew their motion." A resolution to re-create the Town Attorney post was passed, and Norman Keller, a town resident, was named to the post.

Several other appointments tabled at the reorganizational meeting, were made Wednesday night, James Southworth was named Deputy Building Inspector and Fire Marshall; Harry Dannert was named to a seven year term on the Planning Board and Charlene Elliot was named to the Zoning Board of Appeals.

Freer had nothing but praise for the people who attended Wednesday's meeting. "Even when things got hot," he said, "they conducted themselves in an orderly manner, as ladies and gentlemen." He added,

"They showed a lot of public interest." In other matters, it was noted that a public hearing on the formation of the Port Ewen-Connelly-Sleightsburg Sewer District will be held Jan. 19 at 8 p.m. A public hearing will be held Feb. 14 on a local law establishing the powers and duties of the town's Environmental Conservation Commission.

The Board noted that the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers is studying a complaint by a town resident who charges that a local firm is dumping sand and gravel into the Rondout Creek.

Dazzles the Polos

Hamikaze—
The "Divine Wind"— Saves Japan from Invasion

From the creation of Adam to the present day, no man... ever saw or inquired into so many and such great things as Marco Polo.

—The Book of Ser Marco Polo

In the year 1295, three ragged and bearded men arrived in Venice. They were the brothers Maffeo and Nicolo Polo and the latter's son Marco, home after an absence of 24 years and rich both with jewels and marvelous tales of a distant land called Cathay.

Later, while a prisoner during the war between Venice and Genoa, Marco dictated the story of his adventures, which began when he was a boy of 17, to give an unbelieving world the most famous travel book of all time.

In the 13th century, all but the peripheries of the Euro-Asian continent succumbed to the Mongol explosion. Nominal ruler of this vast empire, the greatest the world had yet known, was Kublai Khan, grandson of Genghis.

The Polos were only three of innumerable foreigners drawn to the khan's capital of Cambaluc, near modern Peking. Their admiration for the Mongols was not shared by the conquered Chinese, however.

Marco, who traveled extensively throughout the realm as an envoy of the khan, noted, along with such wonders as paper money and a rapid courier system of "pony express" riders, this hostility of the Chinese. Confucian scholars, barred from the government, took to writing music dramas and novels.

Kublai launched a series of unsuccessful campaigns against Burma, Java and Vietnam. (The Vietnamese had driven out the Chinese in 938, after 1,000 years of rule, and were to fight them again in the 15th century.)

These wars, plus two disastrous attempts to invade Japan, caused inflation and soaring taxes, adding to the unrest in China.

In the middle of the 14th century, popular uprisings broke out. By 1368, the greatest of the rebel leaders, one Chu Yuang-chang, an orphan and former beggar, drove out the last alien emperor and founded a dynasty which he called Ming, or "Glorious." China was Chinese again.

But the Ming could no more escape the "cycle of dynasty"—moving from strong, vigorous rule at the beginning to corruption and ineffectiveness at the end—than could any previous dynasty. In 1644, the Manchus captured Peking and for the second time, foreigners ruled China.

Another new force had also begun to make itself felt during the Ming dynasty. In 1517, the first Portuguese traders arrived in Canton and by land, a people called the Russians were pressing into northern Manchuria.

Nixon's Trip... A Big Spectacular

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's trip to Peking next month may be the biggest live television spectacular since man first stepped onto the moon in mid-1969.

The White House announced Wednesday there will be "some live television transmission" from Peking, the capital of the Communist country isolated from Washington for nearly 25 years and never visited by a U.S. president.

What the White House did not say was that Americans and Chinese are cooperating in a TV game plan so extensive that much of Nixon's activities while in Peking can be beamed live to the President's election-year audience at home.

As an example, there is a plan to fly three mobile TV units—each the size of a large transit bus and one for each network—from the United States to mainland China.

Nixon's press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, said the Chinese have agreed to set up—at their expense—a communications ground station capable of transmitting live TV and radio reports plus newspaper pictures and stories.

The American-owned ground station, used most recently for coverage of Iran's 2,500th anniversary of the Persian Empire last autumn, will be removed after Nixon's visit.

Ziegler, who returned from an advance trip to China earlier this week, reported the President's hosts have erected "in a very short time" a complete broadcast production center—further evidence of the extensive video coverage contemplated.

A sizable advance contingent of communications specialists and network representatives will leave here Feb. 1 to set up and operate the temporary communications system.

Ziegler said the White House press party—which will not include those leaving Feb. 1—will number about 80.

Ziegler conceded that this will be only a quarter of the newsmen, photographers and technicians who normally accompany the President on international journeys.

However, he said "we are very pleased with the number" and described it as representing "a cooperative attitude" on the part of the Chinese.

Ziegler said 80 was much more than the Chinese originally had in mind and represented at least a seven-fold increase over the largest press contingent ever to go to Peking with a head of state.

Asked if there would be press censorship, Ziegler replied, "Absolutely not."

Visiting Americans will be free to roam about the three cities Nixon will visit—Peking, Hangchow and Shanghai—for sightseeing, man-in-the-street interviews or shopping, Ziegler said.

"I don't foresee any restrictive-type measures," he added. Nixon, accompanied by wife Pat, will arrive in Peking Feb. 21 and leave from Shanghai Feb. 28. It will be the President's longest visit to another country.

Ziegler indicated live TV coverage will be limited to Peking. The ground station, being installed at the Peking airport, will be unable to pick up other communications from Hangchow and Shanghai.

While in China, Ziegler said, Nixon may visit the Great Wall, the Ming Tombs and the Forbidden City, all in or near Peking; an industrial exhibition in Shanghai and a scenic lake dotted with parkland islands near Hangchow.

Best Care Available

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tucked away in Air Force One—probably the best-cared-for plane in the country—are the tools for President Nixon's physician to insure the best care available for the chief executive.

There is equipment to handle anything from a jellyfish sting to a heart attack, says Dr. Walter Tkach, Nixon's personal physician. And when Nixon flies to Peking and Moscow in the coming months, Tkach or one of his aides, as usual, will be "never more than five seconds away" from the President.

Although no special supplies are being carried to Russia and China, Tkach said in an interview that special routes already have been laid out in Peking to rush Nixon to a pre-selected hospital from wherever he may be.

The procedure is routine, Tkach said.

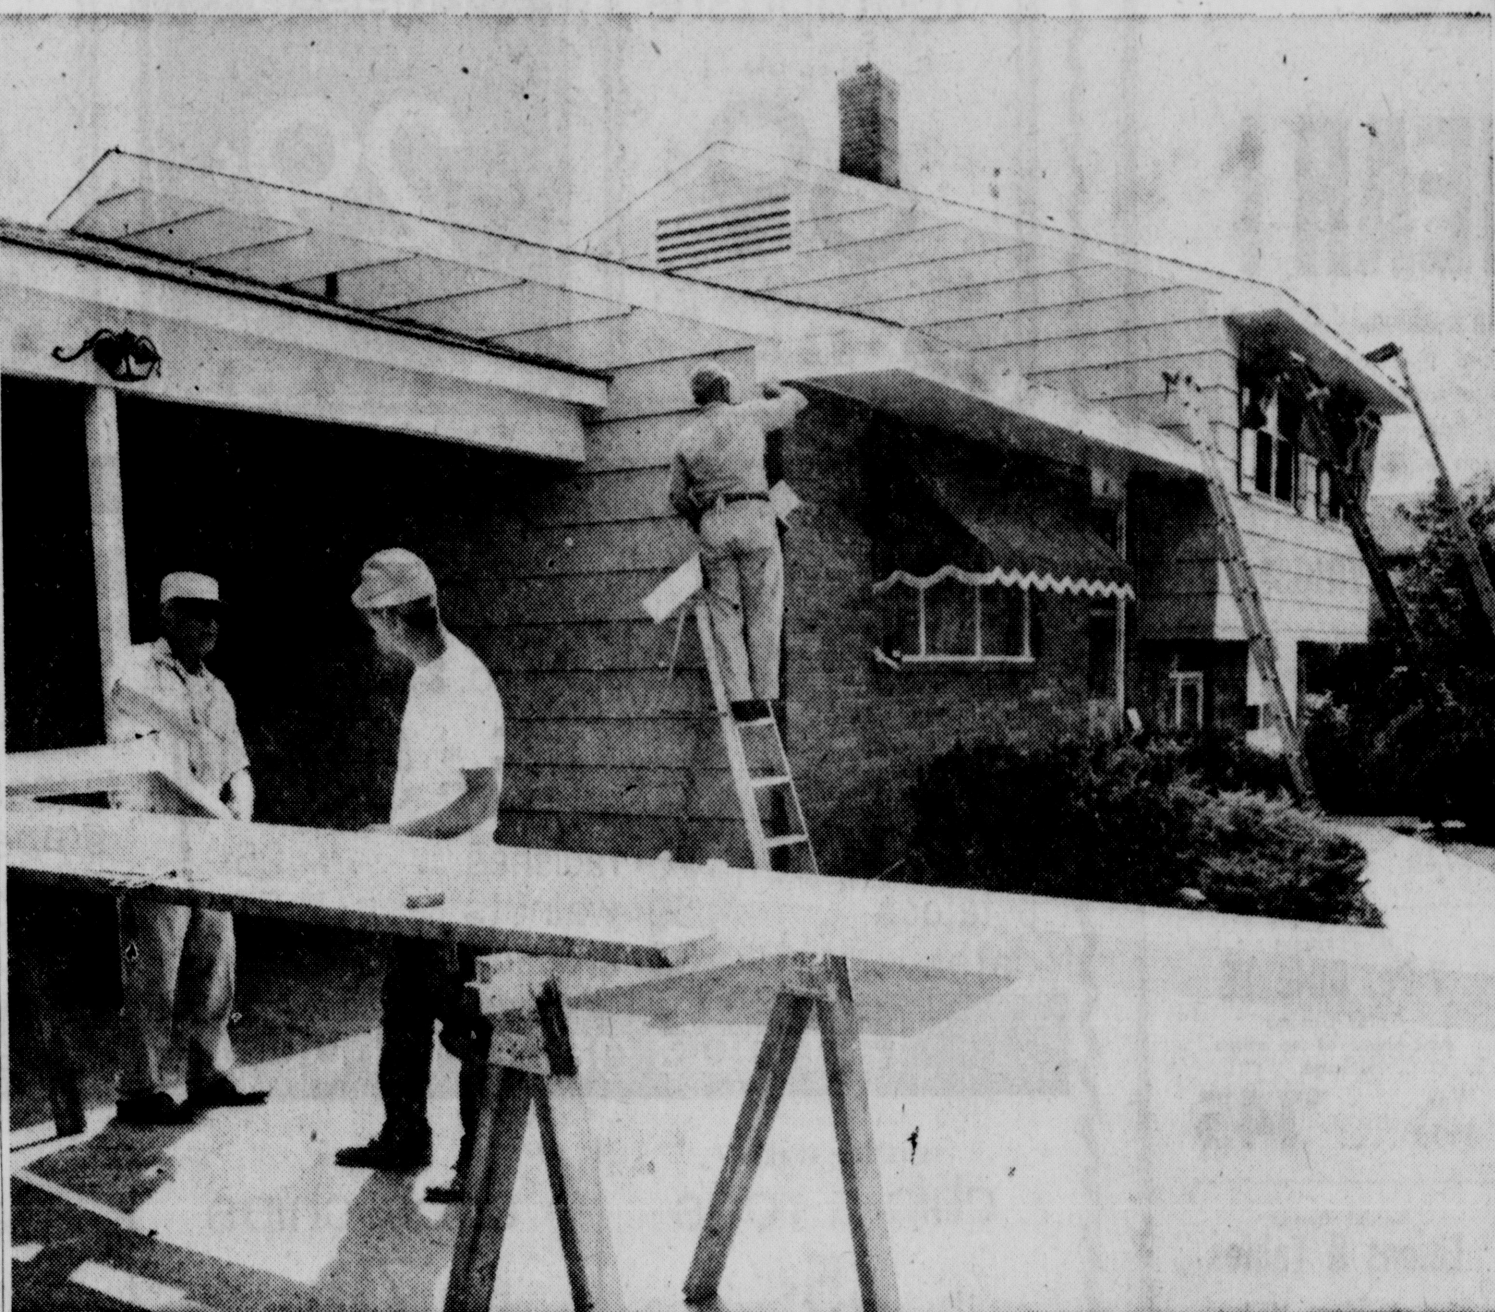

Former presidents always have had medical gear nearby when traveling, and they too were well-looked-after by aides and the Secret Service as to what hospital would be best in an out-of-town emergency.

Ready for any eventuality on Nixon's plane, said Tkach, are:—An electrical defibrillator for potentially life-saving treatment in case of a heart attack.

—A tracheotomy set, should the President's air passage become blocked.

—And everything from splints for fractures, to ammonia water for the jellyfish stings; "all the medical emergency equipment and medical drugs required for treating practically any disease in the home, and sometimes in the hospital."

Chamber to Hear MTA Head

KINGSTON The Chamber of Commerce of Ulster County has scheduled its 26th annual dinner meeting for Thursday night, Jan. 27, in the Governor Clinton Hotel.

In making the announcement, Len Cane, Chamber executive vice president, said the dinner will be attended by members and wives as well as invited guests. The general public may also purchase tickets to the event.

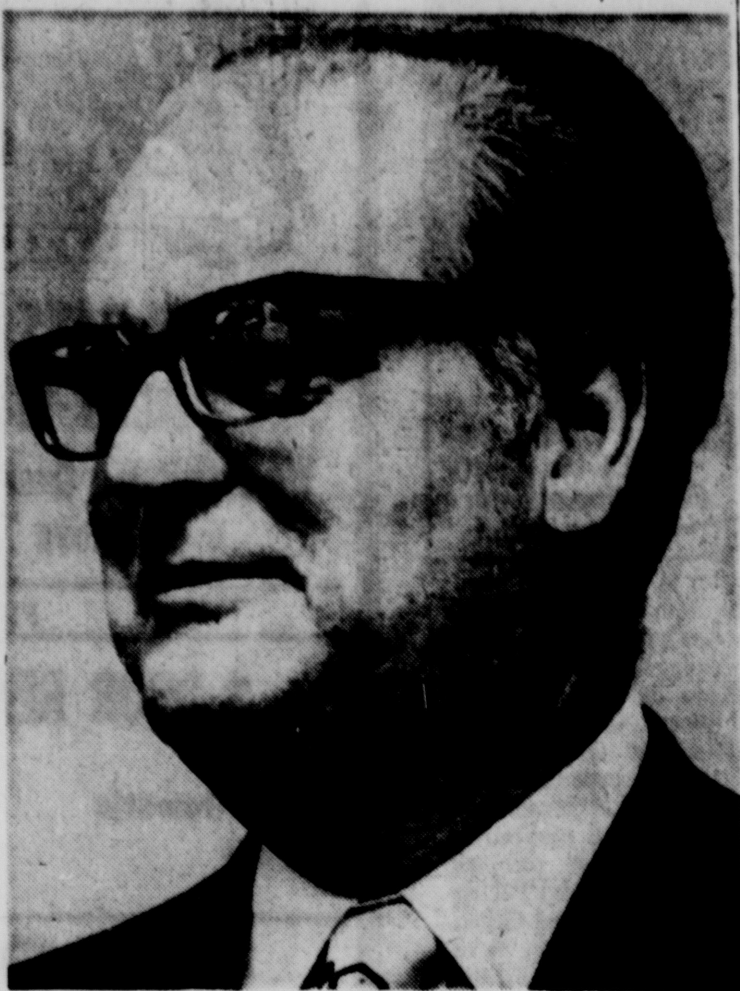

The featured speaker will be Dr. William J. Ronan, chairman of the Metropolitan Transportation Authority (MTA). Dr. Ronan's authority, in addition to administering the New York City subway system and other transportation facilities, is the organization responsible for the future development of Stewart Airport in Newburgh. Assigned this responsibility by the State Legislature and the Governor, the MTA has taken major steps toward that end and continues to plan for significant development in the mid-Hudson Region. This development is of great interest to Ulster County.

Dr. Ronan's remarks about the MTA and Stewart Airport, therefore, should be of prime concern to all County residents.

Born in Buffalo, Dr. Ronan is a graduate of Syracuse University and received his Ph.D. in political science and economics from New York University. Prior to his appointment as chairman of MTA in 1965, he was secretary to Governor Rockefeller and chaired various area transportation committees. He has served as a consultant to federal, state and local governments, both here and abroad, as well as to private organizations. Currently, Dr. Ronan is a commissioner of the Port of New York Authority, president of the Institute for Rapid Transit, and a member of the Tri-State Transportation Committee and other transportation organizations.

Dean M. Kintner, past Chamber president and dinner chairman, is hopeful of a capacity turnout. He reported that new officers and board members will be welcomed at the dinner. In addition, those men whose terms have just expired will be officially recognized.

Clifford A. Henze, Chamber president, will outline the organization's accomplishments and goals. Henze is beginning his second term as president. Tickets are now available, at $10.00 per person, in the Chamber office. The evening will begin with a cocktail hour at 6 and dinner at 7. Reservations must be made no later than Tuesday, Jan. 25 for the Jan. 27 event.

IRS Office Hours Listed

KINGSTON The Kingston office of the Internal Revenue Service has established its days and hours when it will be available to assist local residents in preparing their 1971 Federal income tax returns.

The IRS office at 259 Fair Street will be open every Monday and Friday through April 17 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Persons requiring assistance with their 1971 income tax forms are asked to contact the local office. Experts will be on hand to answer any questions that arise.

It was also noted that the Poughkeepsie office of IRS, for Dutchess County residents, will be open on the same days and hours as the Kingston office. The Poughkeepsie office is located at 337 Mill Street.

The IRS will figure a taxpayer's income tax and retirement income credit, upon request, the information is provided by the taxpayers and sent to the nearest IRS office. On request the IRS will figure the tax for persons with income of $20,000 or less who take the standard deduction and whose income is solely from salaries and wages, dividends, interest, pensions and annuities. After the IRS figures the tax on a return, either a refund check or a bill for the tax due will be mailed.

Donald T. Hartley, director of the IRS for Northeastern New York, noted that few changes have been made in Form 1040, although he said that the instruction booklet that accompanies the form has been improved for the convenience of taxpayers.

New Legislator Starts Campaign

WAWARSING Newly elected Ulster County Legislator Alex J. Nirenberg is campaigning to obtain "fair and equal publicity" for the towns of Wawarsing, Shawangunk, Rochester and Denning.

Commenting on reports that southern Ulster County had been treated like a stepchild and is known as the "Cinderella area," the Wawarsing Democrat said: "I now find that this area has been almost ignored by the Ulster County Publicity Department."

Nirenberg said the area is famed as a summer and winter resort area and as a historic pre-Revolutionary area.

"The omission from the county's four brochures of Granit, Nevele, Fallsview, and Tamarack resorts, the vacation and hunting lands, and the numerous historic points of interest in Shawangunk and Denning strongly bear out my contention," Nirenberg said.

He said he had contacted Albert J. Cawein, Ulster County director of public relations, and had found him most cooperative. He said that Cawein had invited him to discuss the county's new Summer Vacationland brochure, now being prepared.

Highland District Gains Grant

HIGHLAND The Highland School District has received a Title II grant of $2,880 under the Elementary and Secondary Educational Act.

Supervising Principal Donald C. Baines said the grant would be used to supplement purchases of books and audio-visual materials for school libraries. The grant is an increase of $468 over last year's allotment.

Mrs. Arlene Ellis, librarian at the elementary school, has served as coordinator of the program for the past two years.

County Man Is Wounded

PHOENICIA While target practicing with a friend in an area west of this community on Tuesday, Grover Teague, 57, of Minton Street, Port Ewen was accidentally wounded in both legs by No. 4 birdshot.

Teague was taken to Benedictine Hospital for treatment, according to Hurley State Police.

Troopers said Teague was in company with William Dibble, 19, of Route 1, Kingston. Teague was tossing tin cans in the air and Dibble fired a single barrel 12-gauge shotgun. The pellets ricocheted off a rock and hit Teague in both legs, police said.

Environmental Force Has New Plans

KINGSTON Their last effort was such a resounding success that the Ontario Lions Club and the Environmental Task Force will try again in February.

A newspaper and magazine recycling drive will be held

Glassware Drive Set

By JON POWERS

KINGSTON Having dented the stockpiles of newspapers and magazines in Ulster County, the Environmental Task Force has moved to another arena.

Mrs. Richard Kobran, Task Force chairman, has announced that a county-wide glassware recycling drive will be held for five consecutive days in January and February. It marks the most energetic glass drive undertaken in Ulster County.

From Jan. 29 through Feb. 2, a recycling depot for glass will be established at the New York State Armory on Manor Avenue in Kingston. Hours have tentatively been set from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day of the drive.

"Extreme cooperation" on the part of National Guard officials in Kingston played a major role in the realization of this drive.

Mrs. Kobran said she also cited the Ulster County Temporary Manpower Council, and its chairman R. D. Randall, who will provide seven of its workers to assist Task Force volunteers at the collection site. Mrs. Kobran has also sent out an appeal to surrounding communities to set up their own sub-depots to reduce travel time for county residents.

Mrs. Kobran has also sent out an appeal to surrounding communities to set up their own sub-depots to reduce travel time for county residents.

and magazines for recycling purposes.

They were assisted by the combined Conservation Commissions of the Towns of Marletown and Rochester, along with high school students at Ontario Central and Rondout Valley Central and Boy Scout troops in the Shokan area.

In February, collection depots will be established at the rear parking lot of Kingston High School from 3-5 p.m. on Feb. 11 and from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Feb. 12 and 13; at the Bradley Meadows Shopping Center in Woodstock from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., Feb. 12 and 13; and at the Rochester Town Hall in Accord from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Feb. 12 and 13.

In addition to the three major depots, sub-depots will be manned in Port Ewen, West Shokan, West Hurley and Saugerties. Their days and hours will be announced later.

It was also noted that organizers of the drive are attempting to establish depots in other areas of the county, particularly around New Paltz and Ellenville.

Persons in any community who wish to volunteer to establish a depot have been asked to contact Mrs. Richard Kobran, Chairman of the Environmental Task Force, in Kingston; Mrs. Kay Wagonfohr, chairman of the Town of Rochester Conservation Commission or George McCadden, chairman of the Ecology Committee of the Ontario Lions Club, in Woodstock.

Both newspapers and magazines will be accepted at all depots in February, although they should be separated and tied in bundles not exceeding 25 pounds. It was noted that paper bags and cardboard cartons are not acceptable for recycling.

Organizers urged area residents to continue to save newspapers and magazines for the approaching recycling drive.

GOOD SCOUTS—Homeless dogs and cats, puppies and kittens at the shelter of the Ulster County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals on Brabrandt Road off Sawkill Road, Town of Ulster, were given a party recently. The event was sponsored by Brownie Troop 110 of the Girl Scouts. The girls brought cartons brimful of packaged gifts and a bountiful supply of choice food and delicacies for the animal orphans. Shown in photo (l-r) are Lisa Wolven, Beth Alden, Jill Krom and Sue Whitman. A little puppy appears to be enjoying the petting by the girls. The puppy shown in box and many other dogs and cats are waiting at the shelter for someone to call and adopt them and provide them with a good home. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Engineers to Hear Special Address

Len Winter, Chairman of Mid-Hudson Section of the Institute of Electronic Engineers, announced today that Dr. Robert B. Miller of IBM will address the local group on Tuesday, Jan. 18, at 7:30 p.m. at the Elk's Club, Overlook Road, Poughkeepsie.

Dr. Miller will explain some of the facets making for conservatism in thought even in organizations dedicated to innovation and development. He will examine such factors as professional education, the liabilities of the dramatic personal success, professional competition, organizational climate and the individual's concept of "the problem to be solved" as influences on conservatism or innovation.

The complexities of today's technical problems which require many coordinations and cooperations also smother daring. But finally, the large financial costs and risks of supporting bold innovations requires the rare combination of the idea man and the entrepreneur. Dr. Miller also gives examples of how some highly creative individuals are an enemy to themselves and to their organizations, and especially if they lose their sense of humor.

The speaker has had extensive experience in research as well as in development activities. He is now a senior engineer in Advanced Systems, System Development Division, IBM Poughkeepsie. He is also an adjunct professor for the Union College industrial administration program.

The public is cordially invited with members of the IEEE. For further details contact the Chairman, Len Winters at the local IBM plant.

Art Professor Is Honored At New Paltz State College

NEW PALTZ Larry Argiro, professor of art at the State University College at New Paltz for the past 21 years has been designated professor emeritus by the State University of New York Board of Trustees.

In recommending Argiro for emeritus status, Dr. John J. Neumaier, president of the college, said, "Throughout his career as educator and artist, Mr. Argiro has made outstanding contributions in both professional and civic areas."

Argiro is both a strong supporter of art education and an internationally recognized figure in the field of mosaics.

He has also been very active in civic affairs, having served as chairman of the New Paltz Planning Board, and on the Board of Directors of the New

He retired from the college faculty on Aug. 6, and his emeritus status is effective as of that date.

Open Program At Rondout

KYSERIKE The open classroom program of the Rondout Valley Middle School Parent-Teacher Association will be held Tuesday, Jan. 18, at 7:30 p.m. The change in date was made necessary by a conflict with the program presented by the Narcotics Guidance Council on Jan. 11.

The P-TA program which will give parents an open classroom experience is being presented by the teachers of Teams 56 and 87. This is an opportunity for parents who have or will have children on these teams to see open classroom instruction in action.

The number of participants is limited to 100. Those not receiving a fact sheet but wishing to attend may call the school office.

Liquor Dealers Plan Banquet

KINGSTON

Plans for the annual banquet of the Ulster County Hotel, Restaurant and Liquor Dealers Association were discussed at the group's meeting Tuesday night.

The banquet will be held at the Milton Tavern in Milton, in April.

Routine business matters occupied much of Tuesday's meeting, according to Pat Donnelly, president.

The next meeting of the association will be held Feb. 8 at Harp's Inn, Saugerties.

A Report On Phone Service

Here are some facts on telephone service that are contained in our latest report to the Public Service Commission

The report deals with November results,* the first full month of the 1971-72 busy calling season. With the exception of installations, service in New York City was better than it has been in several years despite the strike by telephone craftsmen. Some highlights are:

Results for New York City

- Dial Tone Speed — when someone picked up the phone he received dial tone in three seconds or less 99.2% of the time THE BEST NOVEMBER SINCE 1967.
- Operator Long Distance and Assistance Answers — our operators answered calls in 10 seconds or less 92.5% of the time THE BEST NOVEMBER SINCE 1967.
- Repair Reports per 100 Telephones — the 5.60 rate is BETTER THAN ANY MONTH SINCE MAY 1968.

Statewide Results for the Whole Company

- Dial Tone Speed — in November was THE BEST IN ANY NOVEMBER SINCE 1954.
- Public Telephone — inspections by the Commission Staff in November showed 95.9% of 1,642 inspected working properly THE BEST SINCE INSPECTION STARTED IN 1970.
- Business Office Answers — calls to our business offices were answered in 20 seconds or less 95% of the time DESPITE A 15% INCREASE IN CALLS OVER PRE-STRIKE LEVELS.

Orders During the Strike

More than 516,000 orders for service have been completed since the beginning of the strike. The total orders on hand as of January 1 number 204,000 compared with 212,000 as of the end of October. This is the lowest on-hand volume since September. The normal on-hand volume is 60,000 orders.

*Indications are that December will show a similar performance.

Jack Anderson Says Some Secret Hughes' Memos Bared

WASHINGTON — There was a time four years ago when Howard Hughes saw himself as a messiah, perhaps even ready to abandon his high-priced seclusion to offer his leadership to the rabble. The public knows him as the world's richest recluse, the billionaire who tried to buy Las Vegas, an aviation pioneer who often cheated death, a manipulator of Hollywood's gaudiest days and nights, a man who achieved success in every field except his personal life.

We know him as a bigot and political fixer, a greedy baron who tried to turn the state of Nevada into a personal fiefdom, a man who considered his own money-making schemes to be paramount to the interests of the United States and, finally, as a self-appointed savior with a profit motive.

We counted Hughes as a personal friend during the 1950s. But we have received a new insight from his hand-scrawled memos.

When he disappeared from Las Vegas on the night before Thanksgiving, 1970, he left behind a trail of memos. These were written during the late 1960s in his Las Vegas penthouse sanctuary atop the Desert Inn. They were addressed to his No. 1 Nevada honcho, Robert Maheu.

A judge, trying to unravel the claims and counterclaims for control of Hughes' $229 million Nevada empire placed the papers under court seal. Nevertheless, we have had access to these amazing memos. Their authenticity cannot be disputed.

Hughes vs. AEC

The biggest and bitterest of all Hughes' many battles was with the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC). Despite all of Hughes' efforts, the AEC was dug in at its test site north of Las Vegas, and Hughes was desperate.

His agents insisted that Hughes was interested in stopping the tests because of the hazard from radiation and the threat of earthquakes. But in secret memos to Maheu, Hughes made it plain that his objections had a cash register reasoning behind them.

"How can we expect to realize our full potential as a resort if we are scaring people away with bomb tests and earthquakes (sic)," Hughes wrote. "And, if anybody doubts that people were scared during the earthquake, he should just read the newspaper where the incoming calls were listed immediately following the quake."

"There was an absolute avalanche of protests received by the newspapers and they all centered around one reaction — fear. . . . I don't think fear has any place in a resort. . . . This is a hell of a note in a place that is being developed as a resort, which depends for its very life-blood on the tourists who come here voluntarily in competition with Hawaii, and the many, many other resorts."

Hughes tried a number of ploys to stop the AEC tests. On April 24, 1968, he was ready to put himself squarely in the path of the government.

"I feel we must start negotiating with the A.E.C. just as if we were negotiating a business deal," he wrote. "I urge we start an off the record negotiation, to be conducted simultaneously with the public battle in the press. In this off-the-record negotiation, I urge we point out to the A.E.C. that after this uproar and public exposure and after the fears and curiosity of the public have been aroused, the entire situation, not only in Nevada, but throughout the nation is going to be highly explosive. It will only require a leader. I could easily be that leader. . . ."

Hughes was not particularly interested in stopping all the tests, just the ones that might frighten Las Vegas tourists. But if the AEC wouldn't come to terms with him, he was prepared to lead a ban-the-bomb crusade.

"The public support," he wrote, "waiting for any leader to guide the people involved, the public — many many people all over the country — they are not interested particularly in Nevada or in the size of the bombs. They want all bombs scuttled. . . ."

"I am positive we must convince the A.E.C. that, if they stop the blast, we are prepared, without publicity, to discuss a fair compromise which can be accomplished quietly and will permit them to proceed in an orderly and effective way to accomplish their objective. And, if they refuse, I am going to dedicate the rest of my life and every cent I have if necessary to wipe this nuclear program right out of this country and its possessions."

One of Hughes' side projects was to buy up the state's TV stations, and its newspapers. "Re, the newspapers. . . ." he wrote to Maheu, "I am not willing to delay, even 5 minutes, starting negotiations to buy the newspapers. Please do this even before the day is out if possible."

Racist Remarks
It might have been interesting to see how the newspapers Hughes never bought would have covered his activities as head of the anti-bomb movement he never led. For although Hughes planned to enlist dedicated people in his crusade, he was far from being a humanist. While most Americans sorrowed after the murder of Dr. Martin Luther King in 1968, Hughes' feelings were raw.

"I have just finished watching CBS news on TV," he wrote. "The riots, shooting, etc., in Washington, Chicago and other cities was terrible. I wonder how close we are to something like that here? . . . I also know there is tremendous pressure upon the strip owners to adopt a more liberal attitude toward integration, open housing, and employment of more Negroes."

"Now, Bob, I have never made my views plain on this subject. And I certainly would not say these things in public. However, I can summarize my attitude about employing more Negroes very simply — I think it is a wonderful idea for somebody else, somewhere else."

"I know this is not a very praiseworthy point of view, but I feel the Negroes have already made enough progress to last the next 100 years, and there is such a thing as overdoing it."

"Also, I was born and lived my first 20 years in Houston, Texas. I lived right in the middle of one race riot in which the Negroes committed atrocities to equal any in Vietnam. I just don't want to see you badgered into some concessions, because once you do consent to some such concession, you can never cancel it and put things back the way they were."

"I know this is a hot potato (sic), and I am not asking you to form a new chapter of the K.K.K. . . . I don't want to become known as a Negro (sic) hater or any thing like that. But I am not running for election and therefore we don't have to curry favor with the NAACP either."

Freeman Editorials

On the Far Right

With President Nixon's formal announcement of candidacy and his entry into the New Hampshire primary, with right and left liberal opponents of his own party, the question is being asked, why should those on the right want to deny the President reelection? The Wall Street Journal recently published a description of the far right position. Here it is:

Mr. Nixon is going a good job so far in handling the Vietnam War; his appointments to the Supreme Court have been good "law and order" people; his anti-crime proposals have been proper.

The far right, however, faults the President for: Not doing a better job of dispersing federal power; not cutting the budget; not shunning economic controls; not dismantling some of the Great Society's programs; not keeping America militarily stronger than the Russians; not denying loans to countries trading with North Vietnam; not tightening the economic noose around Cuba; and not keeping Red China out of the United Nations.

Meanwhile, this editor is more confused than ever. We thought the "far right" and the "far left" were for radicals, for really far-out people with extreme goals. We thought the "far right" was really a kind of facism—the American Nazi party, for example. Today, that must be the "far, far right."

And we thought the "far left" was really a kind of anarchy—rule by street mobs, by urban guerrillas, by the bombers—the Black Panthers, for example. Today, that must be the "far, far left."

And so it goes. The "far right," it seems, is not all that far to the right. So, now, we are to have the "far, far right" and the "far, far left" as well.

Clean Engines Possible

The Committee on Motor Vehicle Emissions of the National Academy of Sciences concludes that the rate of progress in developing a clean automobile engines makes it possible that the major manufacturers will be able to meet the 1975 deadline to introduce them in their models that year, but at a higher price. The committee suggests that a year's extension should enable the auto makers to improve the performance and reliability of the cars that meet the standards in 1976.

Optimistic as the report was that the technology will be available by 1975, it pointed out that it would cost the consumer $200 over the price of the 1973 models. Also, there could be a "three to twelve per cent" increase in the fuel consumption; as well as an increase in the maintenance cost because of a loss in acceleration, with additional stalling; as well as deterioration in the drivability of the car.

Furthermore, the committee said that the 1975 emission standards could not be met unless regular, periodic maintenance of the emission control system is required of the owner. This would require widespread amendment of state laws on vehicle inspection. All of which require more time for testing, improving and cost-reduction.

Certainly, we don't want higher prices and inefficient cars, but if this what it takes to dispose of the massive number of deaths and sickness from car pollution, we must grit our teeth and put up with inconveniences or not drive. The year 1975 is too far away as it is to wait for relief.

When the car manufacturers want to beat their competitors to something new, they pull all the stops and rush radical changes on their engines or bodies or both. The industry does not need three years to test and render efficient their already functioning working models.

The emergency is great. The manufacturers should be required to pool their researches and to draw on the knowledge of top physicists and engineers of the nation. They can cut the year needed to produce the satisfactory results needed at a reasonable price,

WASHINGTON — What Presidential candidate in history has had available to him the opportunity to shape the destiny of the world that President Nixon will have in the year 1972 as he meets with the heads of the governments in Peking and Moscow?

These are not ceremonial visits but part of a genuine effort to advance the cause of world peace. President Nixon not only has a chance to "normalize relations" with the government of mainland China, from which the United States has been isolated for many years, but he can, with the cooperation of Premier Chou En-Lai and chairman Mao Tse-Tung, develop an attitude toward peacemaking in Asia and that could breathe a new spirit of friendship on the continent.

The President is not going to Peking or Moscow to recommend intrusion in any of the internal disputes that have arisen in Asia. He is making his trip solely to express the wishes of the United States to be of help both in making peace and in promoting humanitarian projects so necessary to relieve the suffering of a growing population in many lands.

Mr. Nixon will be able to talk frankly to the top men in the Peking government about the need for a removal of the threat of war from the continent of Asia. This means, first of all, ending the Vietnam War, which has been assisted financially and with arms by the Peoples Republic of China. Mr. Nixon is seeking peace in Vietnam on simple terms — the right of the people of South Vietnam to determine their own form of government and to be free from invasion from the north. He asks that American prisoners of war be returned. The Peking regime can help to bring about peace not only in Indo-China but throughout Asia.

President Nixon on his visit to Moscow will have many subjects on his agenda. He wants to further the cause of arms limitation and particularly to halt the expansion of nuclear power. So far as the United States is concerned, it would like to help rid the world of the menace of nuclear war by an agreement between all nations to abolish nuclear weapons. But the time for such a reform is not yet here, though it is being discussed. Certainly President Nixon can express himself on the matter during his visits to Peking and Moscow.

It is most important for the United States and the Soviet Union to come to an agreement on the need to end the war in Vietnam promptly. The Communists can be of great assistance in achieving that objective. It is well known that the Soviets have sent supplies and arms to the North Vietnamese for several years and exercise a major influence in Hanoi.

So President Nixon really has before him trips of the utmost significance that could vitally affect American foreign policy and developments at home.

What is lacking is a thorough understanding by the people of the big Communist countries that the American people have no desire to wage war against them and are deeply interested in world peace. Many ways can be found to improve communication between peoples, and this is one of the things Mr. Nixon has been urged to take up. For once the peoples of major nations become acquainted with each other, there will be less opportunity for misleading propaganda to spread within a country's borders.

Certainly the United States has no hostile intent toward Russia and wants to preserve the peace of Europe. Our government and other NATO governments are ready to agree to a reduction of forces in Western Europe provided there is a similar diminution of forces in the Warsaw Pact countries.

All of these questions are open to negotiation. The United States government is anxious that talks begin which will finally establish confidence in Europe as well as Asia that America is prepared to help the small nations if they are attacked but that it sincerely hopes a means will be found to prevent such hostile outbreaks.

One of the main subjects of discussion nowadays is how to improve business relations with the Communist countries, and President Nixon has expressed a willingness to work toward this objective, too.

Altogether, the President's visits to Peking and Moscow will be historic, particularly in a Presidential election year.

Peaceful Intent

Henry Taylor Says

Productivity Is the Key

FRESNO, Calif. — This great state once nearly elected as governor Upton Sinclair with his paper-money, rocking-chair, debt-defying Townsend Plan to "end poverty in California."

Persuasive Sinclair could talk the ears off a cornfield and shouted throughout California in his basso profundo voice: "More money means you can work less and have more of the good things of life. More money means more prosperity and a rocking-chair future. Distribute more money and you will have more purchasing power, more assets, more everything. Isn't that common sense? That is the Townsend Plan. It will end poverty in California."

Well, it is now generally agreed that the Townsend Plan would have ended California but not poverty.

To whatever extent we confuse the new 10-nation monetary agreement with the money supply here, pumped out by our government, or confuse money with purchasing power, we fall into the same trap.

In central Asia there are Buddhists who believe they can improve their lot in life by standing on one foot, closing one nostril and pronouncing the mystic "Om-pah." They are mistaken.

So are we mistaken if we believe we can improve our lot in life simply by pronouncing the mystic word "money."

Prosperity and money are related, but they are not the same thing. The difference is easy to prove, but the misunderstanding is harder to down than Kentucky moonshine and grows harder to down all the time.

During the war I flew into China over the hump from Calcutta, India. I sat beside immense bales of paper on their way to Chungking — several billions of Chinese dollars printed in Philadelphia. Was I sitting beside Chinese purchasing power? I was not.

They were only bundles of American paper with which the Chinese could purchase little or nothing. In fact, you will notice that in a weak economy any place in the world there is a scarcity of everything but money.

Money will only buy whatever is produced. It will not buy anything that is not produced, and money cannot produce anything by itself by any trick of alchemy or legislation or finance.

When we distribute more money we create no more goods for anyone to purchase — not a single additional plow, or hairpin, or pair of stockings, or stalk of corn to talk the ears off.

Our total national wealth remains precisely what it was before, except that certain rolls of paper have been stamped and cut into bills or entries have been made on bank ledgers. If Congress passed a law tomorrow arbitrarily making every $1 bill a $20 bill, could we buy 20 times as much with it?

In a material sense the greatest good for the greatest number really means the greatest productivity per worker. True purchasing power is supplied only by the production of the nation. Money receives its value no other way. The respected American Economic Foundation makes this and many other fundamentals marvelously clear in an important pamphlet entitled, "The Ten Pillars of Economic Wisdom." Write for it (51 East 42nd Street, New York, N.Y. 10017) and read it.

Everything in our material world has a cost that must be paid. Despite many politicians, the latter-day Upton Sinclairs notwithstanding, nothing is free.

Government — any government — is never a source of wealth. Everything produced is produced by the people. Everything that government says it will give to the people it must first take away from the people.

In the long run only greater productivity can supply human benefits, including increased wages. Anything short of this simply increases everybody's living costs. Our country's best friend is productive work. America's worst swindler is inflation and its artificial pay.

The largest single factor in our inflation is our own government's overspending — its abuse of our "money." And how much government overspending and debt we can stand is the vital question. For it is utterly ridiculous to deny the relationship between always spending beyond your income and inflation (air forced into the balloon) and bust.

We are living in a dream world as treacherous as the Townsend Plan, if we think for one moment that the 10-nation monetary agreement, the wages-prices regulations or Phase II as a whole strike at the core of that overspending threat.

ASSOCIATION FOR RETARDED CHILDREN MONTH — January has been proclaimed ARC month by Dutchess County Executive William H. Bartles (C) and Poughkeepsie Mayor Jack Economou, second from right. Also participating in the ceremony were, from left: Peter O'Rourke, campaign director; Louis A. DeBiase, budget and finance director and Robert E. Ahmed, general campaign chairman. The proclamation marks the beginning of a fund drive to establish a workshop for the mentally retarded in the county. (Photo by The Studio)

Rhinebeck Board Supports Veto

By TIM SCHUSTER RHINEBECK the three District One county design of an official seal for representatives to uphold the Town of Rhinebeck. It in Bartles' veto on the matter, includes representation of three Members of the Town Board groups that originally settled the agreed unanimously with the area: the Dutch, English and Palatine Dutch, and includes representation of two of the larger original industries — violet growing and mills. The lower cost. The Board also approved the seal will be hung at county and town offices, and perhaps made into a town flag.

Town historian DeWitt Gurnell announced that he will give a series of lectures and demonstrations at the town hall beginning Jan. 27 from 4-6 p.m. on the local history. The lectures will extend through February.

Supervisor William Allen pronounced the fiscal picture at the end of 1971 better than expected, with about $33,000 in the general fund and $10,000 in the highway fund remaining. He stated that new stickers for town residents for the disposal area may be picked up either at the landfill site or the town hall.

Councilman Del Wolcott, elected to his first term in November, officially was present at his first regular town board meeting.

Vernon Weir of the Rhinebeck Little League noted in a letter that work on the athletic fields or town property on Stone Church Road has halted until spring. Some bulldozer work has been done.

The Town Board accepted two portions of Primrose Hill Road from Dutchess County. The road has recently been straightened and resurfaced.

Arthur Carl, who recently resigned as chairman of the Zoning Board of Appeals, was reappointed for one month so that business may be conducted while a suitable replacement is located.

And Judge Tietjen noted that the town hall heating system and new office space have been completed satisfactorily.

Legislators Accept Invitation To Industrial Group's Dinner

FISHKILL most area state legislators. Those accepting, and thereby agreeing to answer questions from the Hudson Valley industrialists on an informal basis, are: Senators Jay P. Rolison (Dutchess and Ulster), and Richard E. Schermerhorn (Orange and Rockland); Assemblymen H. Clark Bell (Ulster), Emeel Betros (Dutchess), Benjamin Gilman (Orange), and Willis H. Stephens (Dutchess and Putnam).

Labor Dispute Assault Case Is Adjourned

LAKE KATRINE The case against George Taylor of Blue Mountain, charged with assault against a Catskill Miron Corp. official on a picket line at the Colonial Sand and Stone Plant on East Chester Street, has been adjourned until Jan. 18 in Town of Ulster Justice Court.

Catskill Miron bought the plant from Colonial Sand and Stone on Dec. 31. When workers arrived at the plant on Monday, Jan. 3, they found it closed. Those workers, members of Local 445 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, then set up picket lines at the plant in protest.

Later that morning, Clark Ede of 12 Hemlock Avenue, Kingston, president of Catskill Miron Corporation, arrived to investigate the situation. An altercation ensued after which Taylor was charged with assault against Ede. Another man, described as a red-bearded man, was also charged in a warrant issued by Town of Ulster Justice Court.

Davis said that counter-charges have been filed against Ede, alleging harassment. Davis said he is studying the information in that charge.

Union officials of Local 445 claim that the sale of the plant to Miron by Colonial was "illegal" and that Miron should have kept Local 445 workers on the job. Miron officials say that they are going to use Members of Teamster Local 294 from their Catskill plant to service the East Chester Street plant. The picketing is continuing.

Lonely High School Senior Found Dead in Wooded Area

UTICA, N.Y. (AP) — Joanne Pecheone, a high school senior with long brown hair and a pleasant, oval face, was described by one classmate as a "lonely girl with few friends" and by another as a young woman who "always tried to go out and be friends with people."

Today the 19-year-old daughter of a Proctor High School driver-education instructor and niece of a Utica police department lieutenant is dead, the victim Wednesday afternoon of an assailant who tied her with shoelaces and rawhide to a tree, tore off half her clothes and stabbed her repeatedly.

Police detectives said early today no arrests had been made in the slaying. State Police bloodhounds were used after dark Wednesday to search for clues in the hilly area, overlooking Mohawk Valley Community College, where Joanne was killed.

The coroner, Dr. Charles Brady, said the body showed signs of possible rape and as-

A classmate of Joanne's, Isabelle Daprano, said she did not know if her business-major friend had taken advantage of the privilege but said she had last seen Joanne shortly before noon.

Police speculated the girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carmen Pecheone and niece of Police Lt. Raymond Pecheone, was "Senior day-shift investigation division Privilege Day" at St. Francis commander, took a city bus home in the afternoon and got off at the last South Park Drive stop.

Several witnesses told investigators they had noticed a man in his early 20s parked in a late-model automobile at the foot of the walking-snowmobile path below the hill and small ravine.

The wooded section in southeastern Utica is part of a suburban-like, well-to-do neighborhood of homes in the $35,000 to $50,000 range.

Residents said the path is often used by neighborhood youngsters as a short-cut to and from homes otherwise several blocks of walking from bus routes.

Couples also use it as "a popular parking spot," one neighbor said.

The two snowmobilers found Joanne half-clothed body 1,000 feet from the road, just off the path—her face down, her wrists tied to a tree with black shoelaces and her neck bound with rawhide.

Her uncle, one of the first policemen to arrive at the scene after the boys summoned a nearby resident's help, was taken from the area by his colleagues and replaced on the case.

Brady said the young woman had been killed about 3 p.m. Her textbooks were found strewn about the site where the body was discovered.

A teacher at all-girl St. Francis, John Zobgy, described his pupil Joanne as a "quiet" girl with "seemingly simple tastes. Miss Daprano called her 'a very good student.'"

Her family—her parents, a brother Carmen who is a junior at Proctor and a sister Mary Angela who attends third grade at Albany Street school—was in seclusion Wednesday night.

Enlistments Below Objectives; Volunteer Force Threatened

WASHINGTON (AP) — Voluntary enlistments fell below the armed services objectives during the last half of 1971, a time when the draft was taking very few men.

This could spell trouble for Nixon administration hopes of ending the draft and changing to an all-volunteer force by mid-1973.

The coming months should indicate whether about $3 billion in new military pay boosts will attract enough additional volunteers. These boosts became effective too late to have any significant impact on recruitment totals in 1971.

Pentagon figures show that the services recruited 195,300 new men in the July-December period, about 17,000 fewer than their objective.

Selective Service calls totaled only 10,000 during that same six-month span, so there was only light draft pressure on young men to enlist in the service of their choice.

Some senior military officers and congressional critics of the concept contend an all-volunteer force is an impractical goal, that more money and improvements in the quality of service life will not do the trick.

The Navy led the way toward improving military life by relaxing rules on hair and dress, eliminating make-work practices and otherwise updating conditions under which sailors live and work.

Yet the Navy scored poorest among the services in recruiting during the last half of 1971. Its goal was 53,700 men, but the Navy signed up only 44,600.

The Army, which also has stressed reform from old ways, failed by 6,300 to meet its objective of 82,600. The Army implied this was because it "emphasized improvements in the number of high school graduates and upper mental groups."

The Marine Corps, which has refused to budge from its traditional tough training and standards, did better than both the Army and the Navy. It missed its recruiting goal by only 1,200 men, signing on 26,700 volunteers.

The Air Force did best. It came within 300 of its objective of 48,000 recruits.

Congressional budget-cutting has forced the Pentagon to slash military manpower by an extra 114,000 men before next July. Because of this unusually drastic short-term cutback, the Pentagon probably will be able to suspend or keep low its draft calls for several months.

But the Defense Department may find itself forced to rely more heavily on the draft in the last half of this year and beyond unless the voluntary enlistment trend turns upward.

Rival Factions Join Forces Against British Troopers

BELFAST (UPI)—Rival factions of the Irish Republican Army (IRA) said today they joined forces against British troops in Londonderry Wednesday in one of the most intense gunbattles in Northern Ireland in more than two years.

The usually conservative official wing of the IRA and the more militant provisional wing fought side by side against British troops for two hours in Londonderry's Roman Catholic Bogside area.

The British said they wounded four IRA men in the fight. The IRA said it wounded two soldiers but the army denied it. A number of women and children huddled on the ground in a vacant lot while bullets whistled overhead. The IRA in a rare joint statement from both wings, said it opened fire only after soldiers shot at the women and children.

The British said troops were sent to the area when IRA gunmen tried to shoot down a circling army helicopter.

Mrs. Mavis Sheerin, who said she was accompanying five children home from school, said a British soldier fired the first shot.

"He sprayed the field with bullets. I grabbed the children and dived to the ground. There were a considerable number of people scattered about the field, mostly on the way home from school. There was a lot of panic and two girls fainted," she said.

It was the longest sustained gunbattle between IRA and British troops since August, 1969.

In Belfast, three gunmen walked into a textile printing plant in the Roman Catholic Lower Falls area and shot and killed an electrician.

Authorities said the victim, Raymond Denham, 43, also worked as a reserve officer in the Royal Ulster Constabulary. Reserves are part-time policemen usually assigned to traffic and administrative duties.

Denham was shot several times in the chest.

handle the rush hour traffic flow.

While firemen were at the scene a call was received at 7:33 p.m. reporting fire at the Hutton Park building. Union Hose Company that had been covering up at Central Station was dispatched.

Firemen found fire burning in the storage room of the pavilion. Pressurized water extinguishers were used to quell the flames.

All units returned from the Arace building fire at 8:04 p.m. Union Hose reported back to Central Station from the Hutton Park blaze at 7:55 p.m.

Fire officials termed both fires incendiary and called for investigations.

Sentence Is Issued in Trespass Case

TOWN OF KINGSTON A 53-year-old Ellenville man, who was arrested Jan. 6 on a charge of criminal trespass third degree, was sentenced Tuesday by Kingston Town Justice Richard Alberstadt to 90 days in the County jail.

Charles Miller of 209 Center Street, Ellenville, was taken into custody by Deputy Sheriffs Christopher Jones and Richard Bockelman after he was found tampering with a car on the property of Johnson Ford, Rt. 28.

Miller previously pleaded guilty to the charge.

KINGSTON

An 18-year-old Hurley resident was arrested Wednesday by detectives on a charge of criminal possession of a forged instrument second degree, following an investigation by city authorities and a U.S. Secret Service agent.

Carol Carpino of Zandhoeck Road, Hurley, was accused of possessing a Social Security check issued to Lillian Wolf of 352 Broadway in the amount of $110.30, according to police, who said the defendant allegedly tried to cash the check at the Grand Union store on Albany Avenue.

Police said the check had been reported taken from a mail box. Miss Carpino was scheduled to appear in City Court.

The Other Day

Michael Leopold

An old hunter said that many people are fooled into thinking a rabbit has run-in exactly the opposite direction. The hare leaves a triangle in the snow which points backward because both front feet touch the ground together leaving only one hole, and the two large hind feet strike the ground apart, but far ahead of the front feet, so the front of the triangle actually points away from where the rabbit has run. Most of us are easily fooled by things we have not had much experience with. That's why we are dedicated to serving you economically with utmost care for your pocketbook and your friendship. New Courses Are Offered At New Paltz

NEW PALTZ

A number of new courses, both credit and non-credit, will be offered for the spring evening program by the Center for Continuing Education at the State University College at New Paltz.

Among the new credit courses offered for the first time is Introduction to Philosophy. Other courses are offered in psychology, sociology, history, international studies, economics, education, anthropology, black studies, music, political science, Spanish, and physical and natural science.

Two sociology courses, one dealing with juvenile delinquency and the other with social problems, will be offered at the College Re-Entry Cooperative, a new unit of the college recently established in Poughkeepsie. The courses are being taught in the urban community, where community resources and residents' talents can be effectively used. Registration for these courses is open to any high school graduate.

Credit-free courses include American Literature of the Depression and Post-Depression Era (1920-40), A Perceptual Approach to Learning Readiness for the Slow Learner, Arts and Crafts for Community Leaders, Folk Music: Mirror and Lamp to American History, Acting for Fun and Theatre, and the Structure and Function of Ideologies: Nationalism, Socialism and Imperialism.

Chief Elected In Highland

HIGHLAND
Joseph Valentino was elected chief of the Highland Fire Department, at the group's regular meeting held recently at the firehouse.
Valentino defeated Elmer Speeding by a vote of 50-19.
John Valentino was elected Deputy Chief. He ran unopposed. Incumbent assistant chief Louis Miller was reelected to that post.
Speeding was elected Captain of the fire department, by a 35-32 margin over William Clark. William Carter was elected first lieutenant and Robert Shepherd was elected second lieutenant. Both ran unopposed.
Officers elected were Roy Wood, president and Micky Constantino, vice-president. Reelected to positions with the company were James Casaburo, financial secretary; Gene Pico, treasurer and Michael Sabini, recording secretary.
Louis Alfonso was reelected to a three-year term as trustee.

Ulster Clerk Lists Times For Licenses

TOWN OF ULSTER
The office of the Town Clerk of the Town of Ulster will be open from 9 a.m. to 12 noon on Saturday, Jan. 22, Jan. 29 and Feb. 5 to afford town residents the opportunity to secure dog licenses for 1972, according to Maureen VanEtten, deputy town clerk.
In accordance with Section 124 of the Agriculture and Markets Law, unless a license is obtained for all dogs over the age of six months, a summons must be issued for the owner's appearance in court.
The charge for a male or spayed female dog license is $2.35; the charge for a female dog license is $5.35.
The Town Clerk's office is located on Route 9W North, at its intersection with Route 209.

Businessmen Slate Speaker

KINGSTON
Miss Ellen Donovan, an attorney, will be the guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the Central Broadway Businessmen's Association on Jan. 18 at Scholar's on Broadway.
Miss Donovan, who serves as counsel to the businessmen's association, will discuss certain proceedings, a legal action by a property owner seeking lower taxes from a municipality.
"We're looking into the possibility of some kind of tax protest against the city," Edward Arace, president of the businessmen's group told The Freeman. The meeting is set for 7:30 p.m.

Hall, 100 Lucas Avenue, on Wednesday, Jan. 19, beginning at 8 p.m. There is no admission charge and the public is invited to attend. Benishake, a Hurley resident and a Siena College graduate, joined the U.S. Army in June, 1941, and was sent to the Philippines in August. He was taken prisoner by the Japanese in May, 1942, during the fighting for Corregidor, and was confined until September, 1945, in prison camps at Tanagawa and Ikuno, Japan. Benishake will describe what it is like to lose the freedom that many Americans take for granted, and will describe the tribulations now being endured by Americans captured by the Communists. Robert L. Post, chairman of the Americanism Committee, said the program would conclude with suggested plans of action that can be taken by individuals to put pressure on the Communists to release

American prisoners of war and make it clear that people of this nation are very concerned about their fellow Americans being held prisoner of war in southeast Asia.

Dr. Emeline P. Hayward Dinner

Many Tributes Honor an 'Extraordinary Woman'

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

The tributes bestowed on Dr. Emeline Hayward, retiring director of the Ulster County Mental Health Department at a testimonial dinner in her honor held Wednesday night at the Gov. Clinton Hotel were manifold: "Raising a toast to an extraordinary woman who he had seen" on duty in hospital corridors at two and three in the morning," County Legislator Dr. Gerald P. Gorman knowingly asked, "What motivates a woman like this?" "Sensitive, understanding... These people love you." For Dr. Hayward, who came out of her first retirement in 1962 to join the staff of the Mental Health Center in Kingston, the occasion was a gala one. There were letters from Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr., Mayor Francis R. Koenig and Harriet Kerr, president of the Mental Health Association of the State of New York.

Dr. Anthony Spellman, associate commissioner of mental hygiene in the state, representing Allan Miller, the commissioner, told of the "full professional life she has enjoyed, teaching, consulting, publishing numerous journals and being active in private practice until after her first retirement in 1962 when she was 'dragged' into the profession again in Ulster County.

But it was not surprising, he explained, saying that it not only gives testimony to the sort of services Dr. Hayward provided by the quality as well. "If people don't get the type of care they need, they don't come back," he concluded.

He said that Dr. Hayward had demonstrated a capability, which is very rare, among the majority of psychiatrists in planning and administering the mental health program. This led, he said, to an increase in services to the county and the subsequent move toward a comprehensive mental health center.

Dr. Edward F. Shea, of the Mental Health Board, served as master of ceremonies, outlining the history of the Mental Health Board in Ulster County which had its beginnings in 1948. He introduced Dr. Ghulam Faruki who succeeds Dr. Hayward in her post, Dr. Fred Holcomb Sr., dean of the Ulster County Medical Society who expressed "his admiration and love" for Dr. Hayward.

County Legislator Melvin Mones, in behalf of Peter J. Savago, chairman of the Ulster County Legislature presented Dr. Hayward a plaque and Carl Genna, president of the Association of Retarded Children, presented her a scroll. Tributes were also paid by Sister Mary Charles, administrator of Benedictine Hospital, the Rev. Edward Farrelly of St. Mary's Church who recalled Dr. Hayward from a collection of letters and messages sent to Dr. Hayward from members of the medical field and friends. Others paying tribute included Robert Cousins, chairman of the Mental Health Board; Edward Shirick, administrative assistant, in behalf of Anthony Center.

to Dr. Hayward: Mrs. Magbool Faruki, his wife; Dr. Hayward; Dr. Edward Shea, master of ceremonies and Richard North, husband of Dr. Hayward. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Paltz Board Kayos Proposal Submitted by Pool Opponents

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ

The co-chairmen of the committee opposing the proposed Erman Park pool called for a citizen's committee to search for another plan, and offered to serve on it, at Wednesday night's meeting of the New Paltz Town Board.

The town board did not take them up on their offer.

John Logan and Ralph Kulseng, co-chairmen of the Committee for an Alternate Pool Plan, presented a letter to the town board which called for a citizen's committee on the pool question. The committee, according to the Logan-Kulseng proposal, would be supported with town funds, and would perform 10 functions, including drawing up a new contract with developer Jack Erman (from whom the land for the proposed pool came), examining the proposed site and others, consulting "with pool experts for the best possible design," and reviewing all paperwork connected with the project.

The Logan-Kulseng proposal recommended the committee also include two members of the Committee for Better Recreation, a town planning board member, a school board member, and a member of the physical education department of either the high school or State University College at New Paltz.

Town Supervisor Anthony J. Moriello said he interpreted the defeat of the $240,000 bond issue Tuesday, which had been intended to finance the town's share of the pool, differently than Logan and Kulseng. He said he interpreted it as being a rejection of the bond issue, and the higher taxes it would cause, and not a rejection of the pool plan itself.

A heated discussion ensued, involving Kulseng, Logan, board members, and comment from the floor. Logan and Kulseng were charged with misrepresenting facts concerning the proposed pool, and contributing to its defeat, and Logan and Kulseng said they hadn't misrepresented anything. Town Attorney Wendell Harp said he had talked with state officials following the bond defeat, and had been told the town had a month to six weeks to give the state a decision on going ahead or abandoning the project.

The board decided not to have a citizen's committee, but to keep the present plan, Moriello insisting those community members who cared about the pool had had plenty of opportunity to assist in the planning. The board will examine alternate methods of financing the project, if any.

A question from the floor was asked about the recently mailed out town tax bills. Moriello said there was a $17.90 per thousand increase on the part of the town for town residents outside the village, and a $3.22 per thousand increase for town residents within the village. All town residents are paying a county tax increase of $18.86 per thousand.

Moriello said the town's tax increase was to provide increased service, such as a new police department, a state-mandated fulltime assessor, the new town highway garage, and a new retirement system for town employees. He said the County tax increase was accompanied by no increased services for New Paltz residents.

The meeting was the first for New Paltz as a town of the first class, and new councilmen David Jewett and George Mackey took their seats. Honored were town justices S. Parks Glenn and Rexford Schneider, who sat on the board before the town changed status. They received engraved gavels, and the board's thanks for services rendered.

Public hearings on two ordinances dealing with sidewalks will be held Feb. 2, one at 7:30 p.m. and one at 8 p.m. The ordinances deal with the construction and maintenance of sidewalks within the township.

Harp reported the formation of a joint town-village police force was permissible under state law and according to decisions of the Comptroller. The board resolved that all meetings between the town and village boards be made public. Both the town and the village have agreed to meet, the emphasis of the session to be placed on New Paltz' traffic problem, but no date has been set as yet.

DCC Applications Being Accepted

POUGHKEEPSIE

Applications from certified public accountants and tax accountants are being accepted by Dutchess Community College for a six-hour workshop in the application of the 1971 Internal Revenue Act.

The workshop, which will cover all new directives involving income tax changes, will convene in Taconic Hall from 9 a.m. until noon on two Saturdays, Jan. 22 and 29.

Registration fee for the workshop is $9, and additional information may be obtained by contacting the DCC Office of Continuing Education.

Instructor for the workshop will be Max Golub, an IRS instructor presently assigned to Newburgh. Golub has been with IRS since 1960 and holds an undergraduate degree from Syracuse University and a Master of Business Administration degree from New York University.

FIRST IN A YEAR — Philip and Joseph Abdallah, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Abdallah, Lucas Avenue Extension, were reunited for the first time in more than a year during the recent holiday season. Philip Abdallah, who has been in service for about three months, has returned to Fort Dix, N. J., following his furlough. His brother, Joseph, back from a cruise in the Mediterranean area, will leave for assignment in the Caribbean area following his leave. He has been in service for three and a half years. DFC for Fleischmanns Major CHERRY POINT, N. C. awarded the Distinguished achievement as navigator Marine Major James M. Flying Cross during recent ceremonies with the Second Marine Aircraft Wing at Cherry Point, N. C. He was cited for his actions in an aerial flight November 24, 1970, while on an armed reconnaissance mission over enemy controlled territory. The Fleischmanns major was directed to attack two enemy trucks moving along a road and skillfully monitored his instruments as the pilot made the bombing run despite heavy anti-aircraft fire, low visibility and rugged mountain terrain. Maj. Davis delivered his bombs with pinpoint accuracy, resulting in the destruction of the trucks. Maj. Davis, a 1956 graduate of Fleischmanns High School, was graduated from Ithaca College in 1960.

$26 Million Building Now in Use

Spacious Offices for Legislators Despite 'Austerity' Year

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — In an "austerity" year of more taxes and a tight budget, state legislators are getting spacious new offices for themselves.

It's only a coincidence that the $26 million legislative building is being finished at a time of budget woes, but the combination makes some lawmakers nervous about moving.

But for most, the new quarters are a marked improvement. Many now work from desks in large "bullpen" offices above the chambers in the Capitol.

The new building, just across the street in the massive South Mall construction project, provides at least two rooms for each member.

The box-like, white marble structure is being finished for the 1972 session under speed-up orders from Governor Rockefeller.

Because of the special December sessions, legislators were able to move even before the 1972 meeting opened Wednesday. "It may be the wrong year for this," observed freshman Sen. Donald Halperin, D-Brooklyn. "But, as it is now, some of us just can't get any work done."

Conservative Assemblyman Edwin Mason, R-Hobart, a long-time spending critic, has a different view.

"I'm not going to move," he said. "We'd be running back and forth across the street like rabbits."

Several assemblymen have already moved their offices to the new building, with 108 of the 150 assemblymen and 24 of the 57 senators set to make the switch by late this month.

Meanwhile, partitions shield most of the ongoing work from legislators, because the entire 9-story building will not be done until June.

Lawmakers are now occupying the fourth, fifth and sixth floors.

The lower three floors will contain document and mail rooms, maintenance space, and three major hearing rooms.

The upper three floors will have committee rooms and suites for the legislative leaders.

"This building isn't lavish, it's functional," explains David Gaillard, an assistant project coordinator for the mall. "Compared to industry, the cost per suite is very moderate."

Each rank and file lawmaker is assured of a two-room, carpeted office. The other room has two desks for a secretary and staff aide.

The inner office has a couch and chairs around a slightly curved, wooden desk. The modern-style furniture matches the one of three types of wood paneling on the three office floors: elm, cherry or walnut.

Committee chairmen get the same furnishings, but room for four or eight staff members, and adjoining conference rooms with a table for 18.

The narrow, vertical windows offer a view of the Capitol, the Mall construction, or the Alfred E. Smith State Office Building.

The statistics on the building are impressive: 640,000 square feet of floor space, including 63,000 cubic feet of marble from Vermont and Georgia, 7,000 tons of reinforced steel, and 19,500 cubic yards of concrete.

The entrance will be equally impressive. The visitor will be confronted in the Great Hall with a T-shaped staircase covering three stories. Facing it, a waterfall will spill down 20 feet of granite.

On the upper floors, however, the walls are a "sunshine yellow" cover over plaster. The carpeting varies to match the wood style on each floor.

The quiet, softly-lit offices are quite a change for younger legislators used to whispering behind partitions or shouting over noise in the "bullpens."

Halperin recalls holding conferences with constituents on narrow stairways, in order to escape the hubbub.

One day, he said, a demonstrator took a pen off his desk, claiming "my taxes paid for this."

Actually, the pen was a gift from the Police Benevolent Association.

"Another time, Sen. (Robert) Garcia was having a press conference across the room and I was talking on the phone," Halperin said, "then this TV guy came over and asked 'could you talk a little lower?'"

Legislators, apprehensive of taxpayer reaction to their new surroundings, are quick to point out the mall project was approved seven years ago. The building itself was designed by the Rochester firm of James and Meadows and Howard, with legislative advisor.

Last January, Rockefeller ordered the speedup, which cost an extra $300,000.

It is still being decided what to do with the capitol offices. Senior lawmakers and large committee rooms will probably remain, to avoid the trek across the street.

A $2.5 million tunnel between the buildings was shelved for reasons of cost.

Attica Inmates Are Preparing To Face Jury

WARSAW, N.Y. (AP) — Two inmates will be granted immunity from prosecution in return for their testimony about the rebellion at the Attica prison for an appearance before a Wyoming County grand jury. Forty-three persons died in that four-day rebellion and the State lawyers indicated the

Halt Gambling Laws Enforcement

NEW YORK (AP) — Police Commissioner Patrick V. Murphy said that an elite team of local police will be assembled to work with Federal authorities in an effort to put gambling big shots out of business. The commissioner said one reason for the change was that a study showed courts and prosecutors were not pushing gambling cases. Thousands of hours of police manpower were therefore wasted, he said.

The two prisoners appeared before Justice Carmen F. Ball at the Wyoming County Court-house Wednesday and said they wanted to confer with their new attorney, Jonathon Lubell, before making statements to the grand jury.

Ball asked newsmen not to identify the two inmates out of consideration for their safety.

The 23 grand jurors were not present at Wednesday's session, therefore wasted, he said.

Speaker for Cultural Program at Washington School

MRS. SAROJINI MANE

The Parent Teachers Organization of George Washington School will present another program Friday in their series of cultural and educational programs for the school children. Mrs. Sarojini Mane, an Indian Christian from the city of Nagpur in Central India, will speak about her native country. Her talk will cover the language, customs, clothing and music of India. She will present a display of artifacts also. Mrs. Mane has been a teacher for many years having taught children from kindergarten to high school. In Nagpur she had her own kindergarten class. Her special interests are social work and church work, especially among women and children. She came to the U.S. in 1969 and has resided in Kingston ever since. Mrs. Mane and her husband have three daughters. There will be two performances, one at 10 a.m. and one at 1:30 p.m. to enable all the children of the school to attend.

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Of The Emily Post Institute

THE FOLLOWING letter has been chosen as the prize winning one for this week. A copy of Emily Post's Etiquette has been sent to Mrs. K. Murphy.

DEAR MRS. POST: I recently went to a delightful bridal shower that could very well have been given by "family." Each guest was given a large sheet of white typing paper and asked to make up a menu and include recipes. These papers were all collected and we entered the party and were put in a notebook and presented to the bride-to-be.

Some of the menus were a delight to read and I believe this book will be treasured for many years by the young lady who received it. Showers don't HAVE to mean gifts . . . a shower can mean . . . we love you.

Mrs. K. Murphy
Dear Mrs. Murphy: A WONDERFUL idea, and as you suggest, one that could be given by "immediate family" since no expense to the guests is involved. I shall surely include this suggestion in any future columns or articles about showers.

DEAR MRS. POST: At a small family birthday party for my great-granddaughter (age one year) I found myself in a strange situation. When my granddaughter arrived, I saw my brother-in-law talking to her and from the expression on her face, knew something was amiss. It seems he wanted her to apologize for something that happened nine years ago.

Since the party was in my home, I felt he was out of order to speak to her on this happy occasion. However, my sister felt he did no wrong. But he could have called her and made a date to see her and explain the situation. It just wasn't proper to spoil her evening at her daughter's party.

Would you please straighten this problem out?

Julia

Dear Julia: You are right, in that it is thoughtless to cast a pall over what should be a totally happy occasion. If it had been a simple apology that would have been all right since it would have made everyone feel better, but since it seems to have required explanations and discussions, your brother-in-law chose an unfortunate time to get into it. He should have called your granddaughter and gotten it off his mind before seeing her at your party.

Port Ewen United Methodist Church Plans Family Night on January 22

Members of Port Ewen United Methodist Church are planning a family night Saturday, Jan. 22 beginning with a covered dish supper at 6 p.m. Those attending are asked to bring a covered dish and their own place setting. Beverages will be provided.

Program for the evening will be the making of banners to hang in the church hall. Suggested designs will be available or groups may design their own on a theme such as "Love," "Peace," or "Joy."

Burlap will be provided for the background but members are requested to bring other materials such as scraps of cloth and felt, ribbons, rope, buttons, scissors, needles, thread.

An evening of fellowship and activity is planned and all members of the parish are urged to attend. A Charge Conference is slated for February 7 at 7:30 p.m. The Rev. Paul Allen, district superintendent, will preside.

Next month's family night will be held on February 19. A program of films on a foreign country is planned.

CHARLES BRAND

Organ Recital Scheduled At Immanuel Lutheran Church

The Central Hudson Valley Chapter of the American Guild of Organists will present Charles Brand in a recital at Immanuel Lutheran Church, Livingston Street, Kingston, on Monday, Jan. 17 at 8 p.m.

Although totally blind, Mr. Brand has been concertizing for more than 25 years throughout the Northeast, Canada and in the Midwest. Mr. Brand serves as organist for Immanuel Lutheran Church. Last June it was his privilege to present a series of organ recitals in Florida.

Among the composers to be represented will be Bach, Reger, Brahms, Mendelssohn, Peeters, Vierne, Yon, Franck. Selections will include Fantasia in G Minor; I Call to Thee, Lord Jesus Christ; Benedictus, O Blessed Jesus; Sonata No. 3 in A Major, First Movement; Aria in G; Carillon in B Flat; Berceuse; Humoresque; Piece Heroique.

The church organ is a Steere, tracker action, built about 1887. The public is invited to attend the concert and reception. After the recital, the Chapter will conduct a meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Brand, 28 Livingston Street.

Jenkins Award to Mrs. Elsie Etienne

Mrs. Elsie Etienne, former fourth grade teacher at West Hurley Elementary School, was presented with the Jenkins Memorial Award by the West Hurley PTA at the annual Holiday Music Concert. Mrs. Etienne thus becomes a Life Member of the New York State Congress of Parents and Teachers and in her name a contribution has been made to be used for the Jenkins Memorial Scholarship Fund for Teacher Education or the PTA Teacher Fellowship Fund to help recruit and keep good teachers.

Mrs. Etienne began her teaching career in 1929. She taught several years and then took a leave for some years to care for her daughter, Lorraine, who is now married and is a psychologist. Mrs. Etienne began teaching when degrees were not the order of the day. She later earned her bachelor's degree. She has continued to take courses and workshops and has served on various committees.

Mrs. Etienne returned to teaching in 1945. She came to West Hurley the following year to become half of the teaching staff. Clayton Freidenburg was the sole trustee. She taught Grades one through four and William Russell taught the other grades. That was in the days when children started school at the age of four — ready or not. It became necessary to hire another teacher for these young children, so Mrs. Ruth Clair joined the staff, working with 14 children in what is now the nurse's room in Building I which was then the kitchen.

As additional areas joined the West Hurley district, more space was needed. First came the four room addition and as grades were separated and more teachers were hired, Mrs. Etienne began teaching the fourth grade. Next came consolidation with the Ontario district. The sixth grade, taught by Mrs. Levins, now principal of West Hurley, met in the auditorium, and the following year it was moved to the fire hall. Then a two-room addition was added, followed by double sessions and temporary kindergarten rooms in the auditorium. Finally in 1964 a new elementary building was completed. Mrs. Etienne witnessed this population explosion. She taught all through these changes. She received additional degrees, and participated in more workshops and committee work.

As one of West Hurley's Hot Line reporters wrote in last year's newspaper: "To all third graders reading this article, don't be afraid of going to the fourth grade next year. It is teachers like Mrs. Etienne who make it fun and interesting."

Oriental Influence on Spring Styles

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
NEW YORK (UPI) — A new dynasty head dress crowns the Orient's influence on spring fashion. It's really "something else."

Introduced at the 58th annual press week of the New York Couture Business Council, the head-dress makes the wearer look as though she's either sending or receiving electronic signals.

The main feature of this adornment for the cranium, you see, is two brass items that stand up like the rabbit ears on a television set.

By award-winning jewelry designer Stanley Hagler, the head-dress also had multicolor braids and trappings of black lacquered bamboo. Completing it, as Hagler's concept of the perfect Manchurian candidate, was the style of the Venetian fiber wig fixed by Anthony Antoniou to frame the face and follow the line of the headdress, making a kind of cozy nest for it.

For another Oriental look, there was a dragon lady pendant—an oversized Chinese character that fills most of the space between neck, shoulders and the top part of an evening gown with straps.

To go with this Hagler designed lantern earrings big as a lemon and made of flaming red crystals and rhinestones.

The innovative designer's collection included many hair ornaments, necklaces and earrings of carved jades, corals, and jet earrings in gleaming brass and Chinese enamels.

His Peking coolie hat made of bamboo and edged in gilt is meant for wearing with "floor-length" braids. That's right—braids that reach to the shoe tops. They'll be making the spring fashion scene because they're as Oriental as chop sticks.

We Must Honor Neighbor's Beliefs

DEAR ABBY: How long are you going to pollute the world with your ignorance?

Someone wrote and told you that in his native country (India) it was all right under certain conditions to make another man's wife pregnant. And you replied, "Thank you for illustrating a point which we in the Western World are apt to forget. We represent a very small part of the world, and what we consider immoral or 'unethical' is not necessarily immoral or unethical in other countries and for other cultures."

Well, he is wrong and so are you! Just because they do it in other countries doesn't make it right.

You ignorant woman. Have you not read the Ten Commandments? Have you not read in the New Testament that Christians are to go all over the world and teach the gospel? That includes India, too.

It is polluters like you who delude ignorant people into believing that immoral acts are all right. It's time Christians everywhere wrote to you and demanded that you speak the truth.

DISGUSTED WITH YOU

The essence of all religions is to love your neighbor as yourself. And to love one's neighbor, we must respect his beliefs, tho they be different from our own. To try to impose our values on others is not only a denial of their rights, but also a form of arrogance, which in itself is irreverent. An ancient Hebrew prayer put it very well:

"From the cowardice that shrinks from new truth. From the laziness that is content with half-truths. From the arrogance that thinks it knows all truth. Oh, God of Truth, deliver us."

DEAR ABBY: Tell that lady who is allergic to cigarette smoke that I have the same problem. Only I have asthma on top of it.

I put a great big sign on my front door which says, "NO SMOKING INSIDE," and I have a can with sand in it standing on my front porch for cigarette butts.

Some people have called me a mental case. My own son, for one. He hates having to dash outside for a smoke every time he comes to see me, but I tell him that if he has to smoke that's HIS problem, and I am not going to get sick over it.

I sure pity smokers. They stink!

RUTH IN GREELEY, COLO.

DEAR RUTH: I have a sister who's as opposed to smoking as you are. She has a lovely little metal "sign" in her living room which reads, "Thanks for not smoking!"

DEAR ABBY: When I read that letter from the heartbroken, worried sick wife whose husband almost never wrote to her from Viet Nam, it reminded me of a great idea I've had ever since World War II when my husband did me the same way.

I would like to recommend to the Secretary of Defense that a new service ribbon be created which could be added to those worn so proudly on uniformed chests. This one would be black with a white stripe running down the center. To be awarded to skunks who don't write home.

MARRIED TO ONE

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Hints From Heloise

HOW TO GET RID OF A PEST!

Dear Heloise: Your hints and ideas are a boon to my life. Now I want to share something I discovered years ago when I lived where there were lots of insects.

I always use large glass screw-top jars to store rice, potato buds, biscuit mix, corn meal, etc. I put on a stenciled label to designate each staple. Then I cut out the instructions (for mixing and amounts needed) from the paper box the items come in, and place the instructions behind the jars on the shelf.

In that way, they are where I can use them over and over. No need to keep the new box around. Just refill the glass jars. (I can always tell when I need to get more of anything.)

Insect-free and instruction free! This same thing applies to the laundry room. I buy huge quantities of powdered soap (watching always for those fantastic specials), and fill a large jar with the soap powder.

This saves many a mess from wet cardboard bottoms. E. Thomas

This method is really effective against those old pests, isn't it? It also helps keep the product fresh and crisp. You can share your ideas with me anytime. E.T.

Dear Heloise:

For patty shells in a hurry: Cut the tops from hamburger buns, or use the top half of a pre-sliced bun. Hollow out the center. (Use the crumbs for dressings or casseroles.) Brush the shells with melted butter or margarine and heat in a hot (450-degree) oven for three to four minutes. They will be toasty brown.

Fill with creamed chicken, tuna... delectable!

Mrs. R. Lawrence

And what wife hasn't needed something in a hurry when hubby brings home those unexpected guests? Luv you.

Dear Heloise:

For that special luncheon or other great event where people gather together:

Spray a few drops of cologne or toilet water on your favorite paper napkins.

Spread them out flat on a cookie sheet or other similar flat surface and let dry.

These smell so good and really add an elegant touch to your get-togethers, whether formal or informal.

Hilda Boden

Letter of Love

Dear Heloise: Your column proves that there is still much good left in the world, and that, given the proper opportunity, people will show where that goodness lies.

You are also in the position to see that people do respond to goodness.

After I have read your column, I leave it with a wonderful, clean feeling.

I realize that I do not know you at all, and yet here I sit as if I were writing to a friend. Just because you don't know me, doesn't mean I haven't been here all along taking advantage of your kindness.

Onteora High Forfeits Seven Athletic Wins

BOICEVILLE
Onteora Central High School has voluntarily forfeited four victories it won during the 1971 football season and three basketball wins this season, because of an ineligible player. Principal John E. Stefano announced Wednesday.

Stefano was reluctant to identify the player, saying that it was not the student's fault and didn't want him held up to ridicule because of it.

The player, however, was identified as senior Al Donnals, a transfer student from Brandeis High of New York City. Stefano explained that Donnals enrolled in the ninth grade in Sept. 1967 and would have had to enroll in October of 1968 to be eligible.

Under state law, high school athletes are allowed only eight semesters of playing time once they reach their freshman year. Donnals was a reserve player with the basketball team and was used sparingly on the football team at Onteora.

Explaining the OCS action, Stefano said there had been a misunderstanding in checking the student's transcript and the error was not discovered until Monday of this week.

During the 1971 football season, Onteora scored victories over Pine Bush, Wallkill, Ellenville and Rondout Valley. The basketball team has defeated Hook. The OCS in basketball has created a big re-shuffling of the standings in the Southern Division of the Ulster County Athletic League (UCAL). They will have little effect on the outcome of the North race where Liberty High is expected to sweep through undefeated.

"There was no attempt on the part of school officials or members of the Athletic Department to knowingly violate rules of the UCAL or the New York State Public High School Athletic Association," said Stefano, who is president of the UCAL.

"We have notified all athletic directors in the league," he added, "It was our fault and we accept the responsibility."

The OCS principal said the school has notified the executive secretary of the UCAL, Jim McIntyre, of the violation and has requested that the league standings be corrected in both football and basketball.

"The forfeitures did not affect the football championship, but the basketball standings will be," said Stefano.

Stefano said the error was discovered by Athletic Director Joe Freidel and basketball coach Ron Pape in re-checking records before sending them to the state.

"We sincerely regret the situation and embarrassment to the school and league," said Stefano.

The revised standings as a result of the Onteora forfeits are:

North Division		South Division
Team	Won	Team	Won
Liberty	6	Highland	5
New Paltz	3	Coleman	5
Onteora	1	Red Hook	5
Rondout	1	Ellenville	4
Wallkill	1	Marlboro	4
Pine Bush	0

Phillies Draft Ulster's Tom Gallo

STONE RIDGE
Tom Gallo, of Kingston, a sophomore pitcher-outfielder with the Ulster County Community College baseball team, was drafted by the Philadelphia Phillies in Wednesday's annual winter baseball draft.

If he accepts the offer, Gallo will be assigned to the Phillies' Spartanburg club in the Carolina League.

Gallo, a strong-armed pitcher and .400 hitting outfielder, was one of six New York State collegians selected in the draft. Vincent Roberto of Middletown was drafted by Milwaukee for its Class AAA Evansville club.

Gallo reacted enthusiastically to the not unexpected news. "I thought I had a chance with the Phillies," he said. "Naturally, I'm very happy but I'll have to weigh the offer they make before I make a final decision."

Gallo's coach at UCCC, Al Di Bernardo, a former minor league pitcher in his own right, also hailed the news. "Tom is strong, has a good fast ball and hits well," he said. "I don't know where the Phillies will eventually put him. He should take his time and see what they offer him."

No Game Tonight UCCC Still No. 11

STONE RIDGE
Basketball news was popping all over the Ulster County Community College campus today.

The 11-1 Senators remain No. 11 in the weekly ratings of the National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA) announced Wednesday.

Ulster is currently holding down No. 1 rating in Region XV. The ratings did not include the UCCC-Farmingdale contest.

The disputed contest with Delhi Tech, originally scheduled for tonight (Thursday) has been rescheduled for Wednesday, Feb. 23, as part of an intensive week which will see Ulster play three home games in a week.

Dutchess comes into the Senate Gym on Feb. 21, followed by Delhi and then Rockland County on Feb. 23, with Wade Pittman and Larry Frazier.

Vincennes University of Vincennes, Ind., continues to hold down first place in the NJCAA ratings, with nine first place votes and 168 points on a 11-0 record.

Completing the top 10 with total points are: 2. San Jacinto (168), Pasadena, Tex.; 3. Dalton JC (129), Dalton, Ga.; 4. Ferrum JC (108), Ferrum, Va.; 5. Northeastern JC (96), Sterling, Col.; 6. Paducah JC (52), Paducah, Ky.; 7. College of S. Idaho (43), Twin Falls, Idaho; 8. Hill City CC (40), Hillsboro, Tex.; 9. Robert Morris College (32), Pittsburgh, Pa.; 10. Columbia State JC (29), Columbia, Tenn.

Coach Perry has been frustrated in his efforts to arrange a regular weekend game for Ulster. We can't even get anybody to scrimmage us," he said.

The UCCC coach took a backward glance then faced up to the reality of a tough game next Tuesday at Orange County Community College.

"I knew the layoff would hurt us at Farmingdale," Perry explained. "We had to be real sharp for them, but we couldn't get up."

Perry said Farmingdale had plenty to psyche them for Ulster. "They knew before the game that we were still nationally ranked and No. 1 in Region XV," he explained, "and that was all they needed."

The game with Suffolk was a tipoff of things to come. Perry noted, "Jackie Knowles had eight turnovers and Walter Lloyd four against Suffolk. When two players like that commit 12 turnovers in a half you know something is wrong."

Farmingdale's defense, second ranked nationally, was just as tough as expected. Perry revealed that he had ordered a morning workout for the Senators after the sluggish performance against Suffolk.

"I got permission from Farmingdale to use their gym," he said, "and worked out from 10:30 a. m. to noon. 'However, it didn't pay off.'"

Perry said he expects a tough battle at Orange County.

"They've jelled into a fine club and are always tough at home."

An Influential Two-Man War

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — It'll be "Chicken Man vs. Jethro Pugh" in one of those two-man wars certain to influence Sunday's outcome of Super Bowl VI.

Larry "Chicken" Little is a 265-pound All-Pro guard in Miami's potent offense. Pugh, who weighs 260, will be across the Super Bowl turf as the centerpiece in the Dallas Cowboy defense.

Pugh's got the longest arms I've ever seen on a man," said Little. "I'm gonna try to keep his hands off me. If you don't watch him, he'll wrap you up almost daily."

Little's nickname—"Chicken"—does not reflect his manly characteristics, but, instead, comes from the big fellow's love for fried fowl.

"Next to Colonel Sanders, I guess I'm the biggest man around on chicken," he jokes. "I eat a lot, not too many star-ches, though. I'm mainly a meat man."

Little, a product of tiny Bethune-Cookman College in Daytona Beach, Fla., bounced out of obscurity when Miami Coach Don Shula forced him to pare down a body that was growing coming to discard the fat. "I weighed 215 pounds as a college freshman, was 240 the next year, 250 the next and graduated at 260," says Little. "Then, I went on up to 270 as a rookie in the pros and was 285 the second, wondering where it was gonna stop."

Shula stopped it.

After two fruitless years with the San Diego Chargers, Little was swapped to Miami—his old hometown.

Little played at 285 under former Dolphin Coach George Wil-son in 1969, but when Shula was hired in 1970, orders were forth-

Expos Get Real Giant

NEW YORK (AP) — Who is the tallest baseball pitcher you can think of? Well, we've got one who's taller.

Is your man Gene Conley? He's 6-foot-8, a shrimp compared to our guy.

Do you like Johnny Gee? At 6-foot-9, he'd still look up to our man.

Meet Wayne Piper Jr., 6-feet-10-inches worth of pitcher, selected Wednesday by the Montreal Expos in the opening round of baseball's winter free agent draft.

"He's probably a side-armer," noted Monte Irvin, a member of Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's staff who used to make a living swinging a bat against guys like Conley, the ex-Braves and Red Sox pitcher, and Gee, who used to hurl for the Pittsburgh Pirates and New York Giants.

Piper was one of 15 pitchers selected by the 24 major league teams in the opening round of the draft as the farm directors and scouts went hurler-happy.

The No. 1 selection was Eric Raich, a strapping right-hander from the University of Southern California, chosen by the Cleveland Indians.

"We were impressed with his pitching ability and major league potential," said Phil Segal, director of player personnel for the Indians. "Our scouts tell us he was the best player available in this draft and that he is very much interested in professional baseball. We are very pleased to select a pitcher of his calibre."

Included among the first round picks was Joseph Krsnich, an outfielder from Wichita State, chosen by the New York Yankees, and son of ex-major league leaguer Rocky Krsnich. In the secondary phase of the draft, Cincinnati, choosing for Sioux Falls, picked Gary Erskine, son of ex-Brooklyn Dodger pitcher Carl Erskine. The youngster is a pitcher-outfielder at the University of Texas.

A total of 267 players were chosen in the regular and secondary phases of the draft which was conducted through a conference call telephone hook-up linking all 24 major league teams with Commissioner Kuhn's office.

Hill Doesn't Want to Sit

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Calvin Hill is determined he won't be a bench rider for Super Bowl VI.

Hill can't stand talk that an injured knee may keep him out of Sunday's joust with the Miami Dolphins.

"That would be just too much after what happened last season," said the Dallas Cowboy running back.

Hill got into action for only two plays in Super Bowl V against Baltimore in a 16-13 loss. He returned the opening kickoff. And he was blocking when Duane Thomas fumbled the ball away on the goal line to the Colts.

The rest of the game Hill was ignored by Coach Tom Landry.

Hill had lost his job to Thomas after suffering shoulder and rib injuries.

This year Hill was a terror in pre-season and started the year as the No. 1 running back while Thomas fussed with the front office over money problems. Hill prospered.

Then the injury problems hit—a bad shoulder and finally what may be a torn cartilage in his right knee.

Hill tried to cut against the San Francisco 49ers in a 14-3 playoff victory and dropped like he was shot.

"I could have gone all the way but the knee just gave way," Hill said.

Now Hill—who desperately wants to start in the Super Bowl Sunday against the Dolphins—finds himself listed as a doubtful starter. Thomas has been working in his spot with Walt Garrison at fullback.

Hill has gone to great lengths to pronounce his knee sound. But in the Cowboy secret practice sessions at the New Orleans Saints practice field he still gives on it.

"All we'll have to do is take a little fluid out of it and it will be all right," Hill said. "See, it's okay."

Hill then put his full weight on the right leg in demonstration.

Landry said he would prefer to start Thomas and Hill "because I believe we have been more effective with two big backs. But if we had to play the game before Sunday we'd have to go with Thomas and Garrison. By game time Sunday Calvin could be going full speed."

Meanwhile, the suspense is too much for Hill, a former star at Yale.

"I was born in January, married in January and I want the Cowboys to win the Super Bowl in January with me in the backfield," Hill said. "I've had all the splinters in my seat from sitting on the bench I ever want to get."

Hawks Tie Rangers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Jerry Korab, Chicago's strapping rookie defenseman, bruised the New York Rangers Wednesday night—not by fighting, but by scoring his second goal of the National Hockey League season.

Korab put all the muscle on his 6-foot-3, 215-pound frame behind a 70-foot slap shot late in the third period and rocketed the puck past Ranger goalie Eddie Giacomin to earn Chicago a 5-5 tie with New York in a battle of NHL division leaders.

In other NHL games, Ken Schinkel scored twice as Pittsburgh tied Boston 2-2. Los Angeles and Toronto battled to a 1-1 draw and California defeated Minnesota 2-0.

New York, which leads Boston by one point in the NHL East, grabbed a 4-2 lead on two goals each by Jean Ratelle and Walt Tkaczuk. But the Hull brothers, Bobby and Dennis, each scored within three minutes early in the third period to pull the Hawks even.

Dennis Hull had a second goal and Pit Martin netted the fifth marker for Chicago.

The pair of goals by Schinkel were the first for the Penguin wing in a month, and offset goals by Boston's John Bucyk and Eddie Westfall.

Veteran defenseman Harry Howell's first goal of the season at 16:52 of the second period gave Los Angeles a 1-0 lead. But Paul Henderson's 23rd goal of the season tied the game for Toronto.

Ivan Boldirev and Carol Vadnais were the goal scorers as California defeated Minnesota.

Maroon Mermen Cruise, 66-29

CORNWALL-ON-HUDSON
The momentum behind Kingston High School's swimming team continued to build here Wednesday as Coach Ron Gabriele's Maroons overpowered New York Military Academy, 66-29.

It was the fourth victory without a defeat for what was supposed to be a building aqua team and what has instead turned out to be a solid contender both in the Dutchess County scholastic League and Section One.

The Maroons had four double winners: Kent St. John, John of the victorious 200 medley relay quartet.

Roth, grabbed the 200 yard on the opening relay team.

And St. John scored in both the 50 yard freestyle and the 200 yard medley relay.

Kingston also recorded first place finishes in the 400 yard freestyle (Jay Rifkenbary) and the 400 yard freestyle relay.

Rifkenbary amazed the crowd with a smoking hot time of 4:45 in winning his event, noted Gabriele.

Kingston had beaten NYMA, 57-39, in the December 10 relay quartet.

The Maroons next meet Ketcham in a DCSL meet on Jan. 24 in the Elting Gym pool at New Paltz State.

KINGSTON 66, NYMA 29

Three Best Teams Go Under in NBA

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wednesday night was the kind of night National Basketball Association Commissioner Walter Kennedy dreams about: Four games on the NBA schedule—two were decided by one point, two were decided by two points.

What's more, the three teams with the best records in the NBA—Los Angeles, Milwaukee and Chicago—all were beaten.

Virginia Routs CW For 12th Straight

By United Press International

The sage has been set for Saturday's big Atlantic Coast Conference encounter with a surprising cast of characters.

With South Carolina having gone independent, the battle for ACC honors this season was expected to be fought between Maryland and North Carolina. North Carolina is in there fighting but it'll be surprising Virginia that will provide the opposition.

Virginia, ranked No. 9 nationally, boosted its record to 12-0 Wednesday night with a 97-76 rout of George Washington.

North Carolina, the No. 3 team, lifted its record to 10-1 with an 81-61 triumph over Clemson.

North Carolina's only loss was at Princeton.

Barry Parkhill, just over an attack of the flu, scored 23 points despite being rested much of the game to lead the Virginia attack. Jim Hobgood added 14 points and Frank DeWitt 13 for the Cavaliers.

North Carolina, with Robert McAdoo scoring 28 points, broke once a close game in the second half and went on to beat Clemson in an ACC game. The Tar Heels led by only two points at the half before erupting in the second half.

North Carolina Coach Dean Smith was charged with a double technical and ejected from the game at the half and adding some support to the old claim that on any given night . . .

The Lakers, 39-3 on the season prior to Sunday, lost for the second time in three games when Tom Van Arsdale sank a 15-foot jumper with just one second showing on the clock to give the Cincinnati Royals a 109-107 decision over Los Angeles.

The Bucks, who ended Los Angeles' record 33-game winning streak Sunday, lost their second in a row when Lou Hudson poured in 20 points in the second half to lift Atlanta to a 104-102 victory over Milwaukee.

The Bulls, trying to gain ground on Milwaukee in the NBA's Midwest Division race, were thwarted when Don Nelson tipped in a shot by JoJo White with three seconds left, then added a free throw to give the Boston Celtics a 113-112 decision over Chicago.

In the other NBA game, Bob Kauffman sank a pair of free throws with two seconds left to lift Buffalo to a 111-109 upset of Philadelphia.

In the only American Basketball Association game of the night, Dallas climbed out of the ABA West Division cellar by dumping Denver 107-102, moving ahead of the Rockets into fourth place.

NEW ID SYSTEM — At a news conference in Washington, D. C., recently, Dr. Jerome H. Jaffe (L) director of the Special Action Office for Drug Abuse, shows off a new technique which could prevent methadone treatment patients from registering in more than one clinic. Duplicate registration has in some cases permitted addicts to sell their surplus methadone on the black market. The technique involves photographing the right foot of each methadone patient. Kathy McCort, a secretary in the Special Action Office, assists in the demonstration. (UPI)

NOTICE OF ANNUAL MEETING
The Annual Meeting of the Kingston Branch of the Hudson Valley Federal Savings and Loan Association of Kingston will be held at the Main Office of the Association, located at 235 Fair Street, in the City of Kingston, New York, on Wednesday, January 19, 1972, at 7 o'clock in the evening to transact the following business:
1. To hear the report of the President for the year 1971.
2. To elect six members on the Board of Directors.
WILLIAM D. COSTELLO Secretary
Dated at Kingston, N. Y. December 24, 1971.

Kingston Broadcasters, Inc., a corporation in which Alastair B. Martin, Edwin A. Bernstein, Robin B. Martin, Richard L. Bernstein, Phyllis Bernstein and Dorothy Martin are the sole owners, is the licensee of standard broadcast station WKXN, Channel 1490, in Kingston, New York. The application of this station for a renewal of its license to operate this station in the public interest is required to be filed with the Federal Communications Commission no later than April 1, 1972. Letters should be set forth in detail the specific facts which the writer wishes the Commission to consider in passing on this application.

A copy of this application and related material is on file for public inspection at the principal studios of the station located in Kingston, New York, between the hours of 9:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m.

INVITATION TO BIDDERS
Sealed proposals will be received by the Commissioners of the Board of Public Works of the City of Kingston, at the Mayor's Office, City Hall, 408 Broadway, Kingston, New York, until 2:00 p.m., on Feb. 2, 1972, at which time they will be publicly opened and read aloud in the Common Council Chamber.

The information for Bidders, Plans and Specifications may be examined at the Office of the City Engineer at City Hall in the City of Kingston, 408 Broadway or at the Office of Brunner and Larso, Professional Engineers, 67 Madison Lane, Kingston, New York and copies thereof obtained upon the payment of $5.00 for each set. Any bidder, upon returning such set promptly and in good condition, will be refunded his payment and any non-bidder, upon returning such set, will be refunded $25.00.

Each bidder must deposit with his bid the sum of five percent (5%) of the base bid in the form of a certified check or any bond acceptable to the conditions of this contract.

BIDDERS ON THIS WORK WILL BE REQUIRED TO COMPLY WITH THE PRESENT'S EXECUTIVE ORDER NO. 11246, THE REQUIREMENTS FOR BIDDERS AND CONTRACTORS UNDER THIS ORDER, WHICH CONCERNS NONDISCRIMINATION IN EMPLOYMENT, AS EXPLAINED IN THE SPECIFICATIONS.

No proposal will be accepted unless the Non-Collusion and Bid Certification is submitted along with the proposal. The Commissioners expressly reserve the right to waive any informalities in or to accept any bid, or to reject any and all bids or to award on any or all items, as the interest of the City of Kingston may appear to require.

Your Horoscope

Friday, January 14

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Use diplomacy at home so you do not disturb the harmony now existing there. Let your role be that of peacemaker; silence is the best tool now. Did you forget to pay that important bill? Do it today.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Although you are thinking very clearly, you are apt to be critical of others, so think twice before you say anything. Show you are considerate. A day when a kind word does wonders.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You may have financial worries, but this should not throw you for a loop, so keep calm and plan how to get yourself out of the morass, ethically. Do not overspend on anything, no matter how small the item. Learn to be economical.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19) You are tempted to argue with others and this could lead to trouble, so take it easy. See what you can do to improve your appearance. Changing your attitude can work wonders at this time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have worries that could keep you from getting all those important tasks done, so do something constructive about them and all is fine. Try to help those less fortunate than you, too. Show generosity.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You want information from friends but they are too busy right now, so wait for a better time.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Lambasting an associate who is not tending to business does no good, but kind prodding helps greatly. Make sure you get own work done without complaint. Evening brings far better understanding.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get busy at that work ahead of you, instead of lagging or you could lose what is actually a good job. Stop running around so much and take better care of your health. Have a more optimistic outlook on life.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get out for a good time but don't bother others who are too busy to accompany you, don't spend too much. Perfecting some talent is good. Balance work and fun intelligently.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 12) Make certain you pay those bills instead of trying some trick that could easily lose your support of higher-ups. Don't take any anger out on mate points whatever they may be. Yet for the wise man or woman, anything of this nature will be studiously avoided since unnecessary estrangements can occur if one yields to this present atmosphere of contention, scrapping.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Take care you do not force issues with bigwigs where your talents and needs are concerned or you get little success with them. Handle those credit matters well. Improve your reputation.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have to do more study where new ideas are concerned before putting them in operation, otherwise they peter out unsuccessfully. Avoid that overly glamorous person. Stay on the safe side of life.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

UNHAPPY CHAIN: (Q.) I told a bunch of lies and my parents are mad at me. I was in a rotten mood and broke up with my boy friend—I didn't really want to. I was mean to my girl friend. Three mean girls are spreading dirty rumors about me.

When school is out I just go home and cry. I am falling apart. How can I get my boyfriend back, and my other friends too?—Pile of Trouble in New Jersey.

(A.) Sometimes, with all of us, everything seems to go wrong. Often it is our own fault. You recognize that at least part of your trouble is your fault.

Apologize to your parents and your boy friend and your girl friend. Promise to try to do better. Ask them to forgive you.

Ignore the rumors.

Plus this: Keep in mind from now on that having friends is much more important than getting even, or blowing your top, or being Miss Big, or getting somebody told, or having your own way.

TOO OLD? (Q.) My stepfather says I should not see this boy I like. He says the boy is too old for me. The boy is 25 and I am 17.

My mother says it is all right for the boy to come over as long as she is there. So he comes when my mother is home and my stepfather isn't. This makes my stepfather very mad. How can I get to see my friend without a whole lot of commotion being made over it?—Neither Yes Nor No in Washington, D.C.

(A.) The only sensible solution to this unsatisfactory arrangement is for your mother to talk with your stepfather and reach an understanding about whether you are to go with the man or not. Ask her to do this.

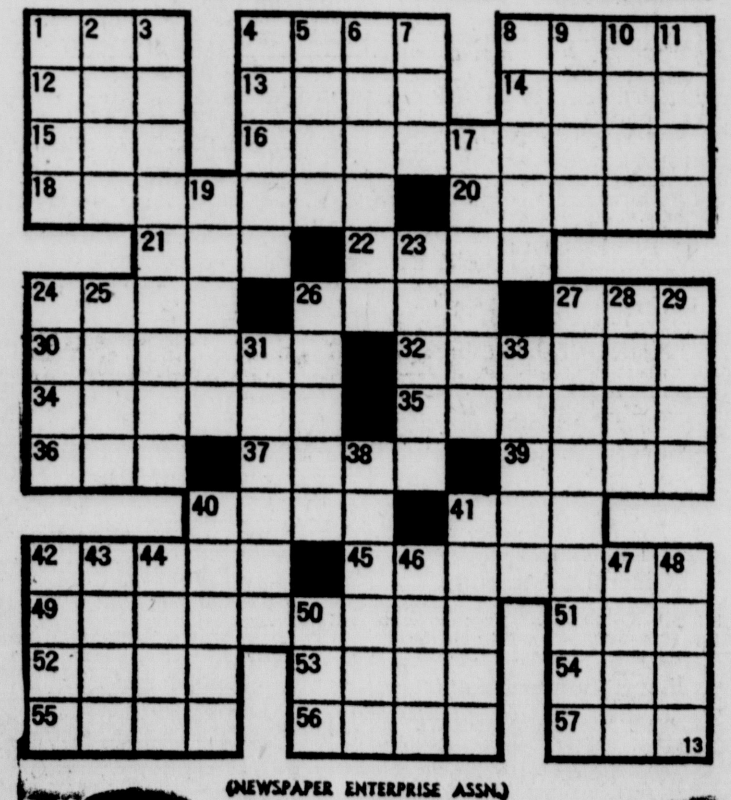

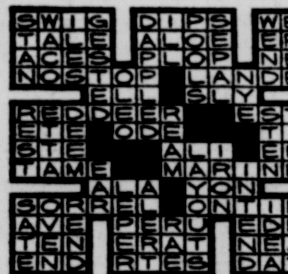

Or solve it for yourself. You did not ask me, but I think he is probably too old for you. Stop going with him and start going with a boy or boys of 17 or 18. Then there wouldn't be any more commotion over him.

PRISCILLA'S POP

WHY WE SAY

WHITE TABLE: We call a place where snapshots or autographs are kept an album. Actually the original albums were not books. The word goes back to ancient Rome where the names of public officers and rules were printed on a white-topped table. Album is derived from "albus" or white board.

Monday Football Is Missed

NEW YORK (AP) — Judging from the goings-on Wednesday night, the television networks can hardly bear the prospect of a few months without football dominating their screens. There were two specials, both designed for laughter, but there was a hint of sadness about the seasonal departure of the game.

The premiere of ABC's "Comedy Hour" was a "Friar's Roast" with New York Jet star Joe Namath as object of the jokes. It was only half-way through when CBS presented its "Super Comedy Bowl," ablaze with stars and football players, much of it directing attention to Sunday's Super Bowl which CBS will broadcast.

The ABC Friar's Roast was identical, except for the gags, with NBC Friar's Roasts of past seasons when they appeared as part of the by-gone "Music Hall" series.

The set up is a speakers' dais with the celebrities lined up to come on in turn. The television version is a laundered adaptation of a real stag event held by a show business organization. Both kinds are totally dedicated to insulting the honored guest.

While a 60-minute barrage of derogatory remarks can become tiresome, the speakers Wednesday turned in with few exceptions witty and merry monologues—even to a viewer with only mild interest in football or in Joe Namath as athlete, businessman, movie actor or swinger.

Buddy Hackett, as "roast-master" was sly and rowdy in his introductions of speakers who ranged from California Gov. Ronald Reagan to Howard Cosell, ABC sportscaster. While the speakers' lines were bright and amusing, they built gradually. There were few one-liners such as that of Namath's teammate Emerson Booz who remarked that he flew from New York to Los Angeles to see Joe because "I so rarely get to see you." The line pre-supposed that every viewer knew that Joe's injuries had prevented him from playing most of the past two seasons—and probably everyone did.

An occasional show of this type is an interesting change.

However, the format can not be used often without becoming predictable and repetitious. "The Super Comedy Bowl" stars included two who were also prominent on the ABC program—Burt Reynolds and Tony Curtis. The hour's sketch material was not as bright as the stars who played in them and a lot of the jokes were pretty much inside.

Old man Z was back at the club after a long absence. He got right into a rubber bridge game with both sides vulnerable and promptly blasted to slam.

Not that six spades wasn't a sound contract. More scientific bidding might have brought him to seven, but it was well he stopped at six. Since East held all four clubs, there was no way to bring home more than 12 tricks. The slightest carelessness in play would have left him one trick short.

"Shades of R.F. Foster," muttered Z. "Old hands always repeat for me."

After that Z went up with dummy's ace of diamonds and led a trump. East showed out and Z said, "Just as I thought." He took his king of trumps and led the seven. West covered with the nine. Z returned to his hand with the kind of diamonds and led the eight of trumps. It did not matter what West did. Z was able to pick up the GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is apt to be a day when most people are ready for a good argument to prove their points whatever they may be. Yet for the wise man or woman, anything of this nature will be studiously avoided since unnecessary estrangements can occur if one yields to this present atmosphere of contention, scrapping.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Take care you do not force issues with bigwigs where your talents and needs are concerned or you get little success with them. Handle those credit matters well. Improve your reputation.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have to do more study where new ideas are concerned before putting them in operation, otherwise they peter out unsuccessfully. Avoid that overly glamorous person. Stay on the safe side of life.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 12) Make certain you pay those bills instead of trying some trick that could easily lose you the support of higher-ups. Don't take any anger out on mate if you feel that life is not treating you just right. Think.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Lambasting an associate who is not tending to business does no good, but kind prodding helps greatly. Make sure you get own work done without complaint. Evening brings far better understanding.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get busy at that work ahead of you instead of lagging or you could lose what is actually a good job. Stop running around so much and take better care of your health. Have a more optimistic outlook on life.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get out for a good time but don't bother others who are too busy to accompany you. don't spend too much. Perfecting some talent is good. Balance work and fun intelligently.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)

Use diplomacy at home so you do not disturb the harmony now existing there. Let your role be that of peacemaker; silence is the best tool now. Did you forget to pay that important bill? Do it today.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Although you are thinking very clearly, you are apt to be critical of others, so think twice before you say anything. Show you are considerate. A day when a kind word does wonders.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You may have financial worries, but this should not throw you for a loop, so keep calm and plan how to get yourself out of the morass, ethically. Do not overspend on anything, no matter how small the item. Learn to be economical.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You are tempted to argue with others and this could lead to trouble, so take it easy. See what you can do to improve your appearance. Changing your attitude can work wonders at this time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have worries that could keep you from getting all those important tasks done, so do something constructive about them and all is fine. Try to help those less fortunate than you, too. Show generosity.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You want information from friends but they are too busy right now, so wait for a better time. Use your own good judgement and handle personal affairs well. Don't waste time fretting foolishly.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those delightful young people who has much ability where practical matters are concerned, but there appears to be a lack of perseverance, so it behooves you as parents or guardians early in life to teach to complete whatever has once been started. Then the chart becomes a most successful one. The sense of humor here is terrific and for this reason your youngster can be quite a boon to society, bring joy to many who are depressed.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

UNHAPPY CHAIN: (Q.) I told a bunch of lies and my parents are mad at me. I was in a rotten mood and broke up with my boy friend—I didn't really want to. I was mean to my girl friend. Three mean girls are spreading dirty rumors about me.

When school is out I just go home and cry. I am falling apart. How can I get my boyfriend back, and my other friends too?—Pile of Trouble in New Jersey.

(A.) Sometimes, with all of us, everything seems to go wrong. Often it is our own fault.

You recognize that at least part of your trouble is your fault.

Apologize to your parents and your boy friend and your girl friend. Promise to try to do better. Ask them to forgive you.

Ignore the rumors.

Plus this: Keep in mind from now on that having friends is much more important than getting even, or blowing your top, or being Miss Big, or getting somebody told, or having your own way.

TOO OLD? (Q.) My stepfather says I should not see this boy I like. He says the boy is too old for me. The boy is 25 and I am 17.

My mother says it is all right for the boy to come over as long as she is there. So he comes when my mother is home and my stepfather isn't. This makes my stepfather very mad. How can I get to see my friend without a whole lot of commotion being made over it?—Neither Yes Nor No in Washington, D.C.

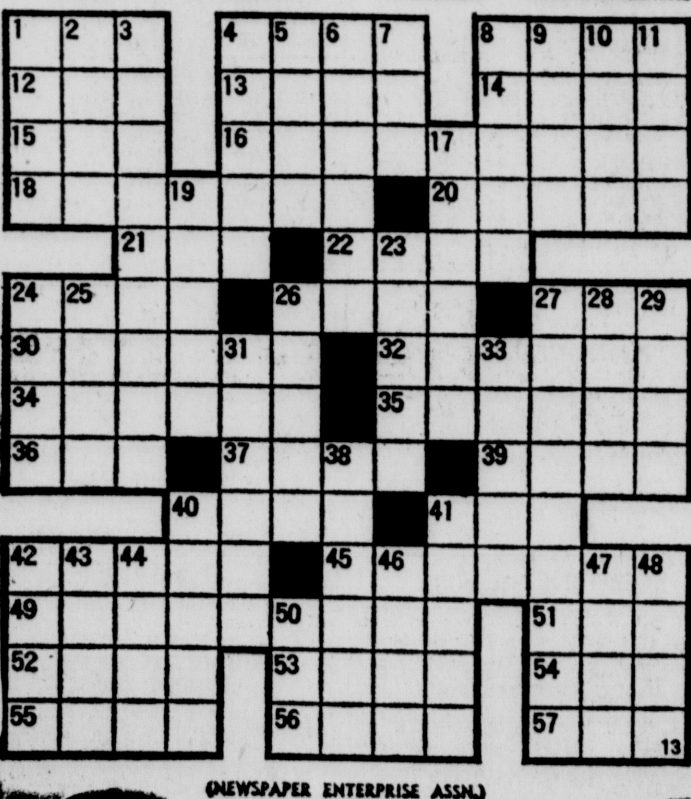

(A.) The only sensible solution to this unsatisfactory arrangement is for your mother to talk with your stepfather and reach an understanding about whether you are to go with the man or not. Ask her to do this.

Or solve it for yourself. You did not ask me, but I think he is probably too old for you. Stop going with him and start going with a boy or boys of 17 or 18 or 19. Then there wouldn't be any more commotion over him.

It was only half-way through when CBS presented its "Super Comedy Bowl," ablaze with stars and football players, much of it directing attention to Sunday's Super Bowl which CBS will broadcast.

The ABC Friar's Roast was identical, except for the gags, with NBC Friar's Roasts of past seasons when they appeared as part of the by-gone "Music Hall" series.

The set up is a speakers' dais with the celebrities lined up to come on in turn. The television version is a laundered adaptation of a real stag event held by a show business organization. Both kinds are totally dedicated to insulting the honored guest.

While a 60-minute barrage of derogatory remarks can become tiresome, the speakers Wednesday turned in with few exceptions witty and merry monologues—even to a viewer with only mild interest in football or in Joe Namath as athlete, businessman, movie actor or swinger.

Buddy Hackett, as "roastmaster" was sly and rowdy in his introductions of speakers who ranged from California Gov. Ronald Reagan to Howard Cosell, ABC sportscaster. While the speakers' lines were bright and amusing, they built gradually. There were few one- or two-liners such as that of Namath's teammate Emerson Booz, who remarked that he flew from New York to Los Angeles to see Joe because "I so rarely get to see you." The line presupposed that every viewer knew that Joe's injuries had prevented him from playing most of the past two seasons—and probably everyone did.

An occasional show of this type is an interesting change. However, the format can not be used often without becoming predictable and repetitious. "The Super Comedy Bowl" stars included two who were also prominent on the ABC program—Burt Reynolds and Tony Curtis. The hour's sketch material was not as bright as the stars who played in them and a lot of the jokes were pretty much inside.

Old man Z was back at the club after a long absence. He got right into a rubber bridge game with both sides vulnerable and promptly blasted to slam.

Not that six spades wasn't a sound contract. More scientific bidding might have brought him to seven, but it was well he stopped at six. Since East held all four clubs, there was no way to bring home more than 12 tricks. The slightest carelessness in play would have left him one trick short.

"Shades of R. F. Foster," muttered Z. "Old hands always repeat for me."

After that Z went up with dummy's ace of diamonds and led a trump. East showed out and Z said, "Just as I thought."

He took his king of trumps and led the seven. West covered with the nine. Z returned to his hand with the kind of diamonds and led the eight of trumps. It did not matter what West did. Z was able to pick up the

Communists Intensify Attack

SAIGON (AP) — Communist forces hit more South Vietnamese outposts today on the third day of intensified ground action, and U.S. fighter-bombers exchanged missiles with anti-aircraft batteries inside North Vietnam for the first time this year.

Twenty-six more enemy ground attacks were reported in South Vietnam for the 24 hours ending at 6 a.m. This brought the three-day total to 86, the most in more than three months.

The government said 33 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops and 15 South Vietnamese soldiers were killed. Twenty-five government soldiers and six civilians were reported wounded.

In the air war, two Air Force F105 fighter escorts launched three missiles at a surface-to-air missile site and an adjoining anti-aircraft artillery battery after a SAM was fired at the American planes, the U.S. Command said.

The results of the American attack were unknown and there was no damage to the U.S. aircraft, the command said.

The action occurred near the Ban Karai pass, about 40 miles north of the demilitarized zone. Although it was the fifth so-called "protective reaction" strike inside North Vietnam this year, it was the first time that missiles had been exchanged in North Vietnam, the U.S. Command said.

In the ground fighting, the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese hit at least four government posts with strong attacks.

A battalion of some 200 Viet Cong troops got to within 10 miles of the coastal city of Qui Nhon, the capital of Binh Dinh Province 275 miles northeast of Saigon. They attacked a militia post, killing 10 South Vietnamese soldiers and wounding 13. Enemy losses were not known.

Other enemy attacks came in the central coastal area, the Mekong Delta and 20 miles southwest of Saigon along the main road to the Delta.

The U.S. Command reported two mortar attacks against troops of the 196th Infantry Brigade and against the 11th Combat Aviation Group helicopter base, both on the outskirts of Da Nang. A total of 11 mortar shells hit the two units but caused no casualties or damage, the command said.

The increase in Communist attacks, although still on a small scale, has aroused fears among South Vietnamese officials that the enemy may be planning another offensive next month to coincide with the Tet festival of the lunar new year on Feb. 15 and with President Nixon's trip to Red China a week later.

To meet the threat, thousands of South Vietnamese troops have been pulled back from bases in eastern Cambodia, including the major installation at Khek. Two weak Cambodian brigades that were supposed to take over the defense of Khek also pulled out, claiming they did not have the necessary heavy weapons.

New Condition Placed on Withdrawal

PARIS (AP) — The South Vietnamese government asserted today that the withdrawal of all U.S. forces from South Vietnam depends on Communist willingness to negotiate the withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops as well as on the release of American prisoners of war.

The U.S. government endorsed this stand, which appeared to set a new condition for a total American withdrawal.

South Vietnamese representative Pham Dang Lam told the Communists at the 14th session of the Vietnam peace talks:

"Whether all the allied forces leave South Vietnam or there remain residual forces, and how long these forces will take to disengage, depends on whether or not you accept to negotiate seriously on the problem of troop withdrawal as part of an over-all settlement, as well as on the question of the release of prisoners of war."

U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter followed with a statement that "the representative of the government of the Republic of Vietnam has spoken for our side. I support his remarks."

Hanoi has never acknowledged the presence of North Vietnamese regular forces in South Vietnam and has always ignored demands to discuss their withdrawal.

President Nixon has said final withdrawal of U.S. forces depends on the release of the captive Americans and on the ability of the South Vietnamese government to survive without U.S. military support.

North Vietnam's deputy negotiator, Nguyen Minh Vy, said President Nixon's conditions for a total U.S. withdrawal showed that his administration "has not given up its position of aggression and colonialism."

Advocate of Mao Fights for Job

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Prof. H. Bruce Franklin, a Maoist who advocates the overthrow of the American capitalist system, is fighting to remain on the faculty of Stanford University so he can express his revolutionary beliefs.

Stanford President Richard Lyman has recommended to the university's trustees that the 37-year-old associate professor of English be fired for allegedly inciting antiwar demonstrations on campus last February to protest the invasion of Laos.

After Lyman's announcement Sunday, Franklin said he had no hope the trustees would reverse the president's decision, adding that he would appeal the dismissal in court. The trustees are not expected to consider the matter until later this month.

Franklin claims his case marks the first time an American university has tried to fire a tenured professor "on political grounds."

He said he has "a political, moral and even a legal responsibility" to see that Stanford students are not deprived of and those of other revolutionaries.

"The heart of the issue," Franklin said, is that "they're not going to allow one professor at the university to say that the university should be run by poor working people."

A Stanford spokesman denies

Franklin's contention about dismissal of a tenured teacher. He said Wisconsin State University regents last October dismissed tenured Asst. Prof. William L. Lafferty, whom the university said encouraged student demonstrations on the Whitewater campus in spring 1970.

A seven-member faculty advisory board recommended to Lyman Jan. 5 that Franklin be dismissed with pay up to Aug. 31. The board based its 5-2 recommendation on more than one million words of testimony during a six week hearing.

Franklin said at a news conference after the release of the board's recommendation that he hoped there would be a violent reaction on campus.

"They exposed the fact that there is no free speech at Stanford or at any other university in this country," he said.

At that news conference, Franklin's wife Jane stood next to him holding an unloaded carbine. Franklin said it symbolized Communist Chinese leader Mao Tse-tung's dictum that "political power grows out of the barrel of a gun."

To date, no violence has erupted on this suburban campus, 30 miles south of San Francisco, which had been having a relatively quiet year until bombs did extensive damage to the linear accelerator Dec. 7.

There have been several demonstrations protesting the dismissal recommendations, the largest attracting a crowd of about 400. A band of sympathizers occupied the Stanford chapel Sunday, Jan. 9, renaming it the "Bruce Franklin Memorial Church."

Franklin, an expert on Herman Melville and science fiction, was suspended by Lyman last Feb. 12, two days after antiwar protesters occupied and shut down the campus computer center. Franklin joined the Stanford faculty in 1961 and gained tenure in 1965.

Lyman brought four charges against him which he said warranted dismissal, three involving the computer center occupation and one disruption of a speech by former Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

In its final report, the faculty board concluded that Franklin incited occupation of the computer center, urged defiance of a police order to disperse and called on a nighttime rally for violent action.

It unanimously found him innocent of participating in disruptions that forced cancellation of Lodge's speech Jan. 11, 1971.

The board said: "Prof. Franklin engages in a pattern of conduct that constitutes a continual challenge to the institution. He states that he wishes to encourage violent and coercive actions, but at the same time not to risk the loss of his position in the university."

Lyman concurred in the board's conclusions and said in recommending Franklin's dismissal to the trustees: "No fair and careful reading of the record of this case will provide comfort for any who may be tempted to use it as a precedent for an attack on the freedoms essential to an academic institution."

Wallace Enters Dem Ring

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — George C. Wallace formally announced as a Democratic candidate for president today and called for a grass roots movement to wrest control of the party from "so-called intellectual snobs."

Wallace, the 52-year-old governor of Alabama, chose the capital of a large Southern state with a key March 14 presidential primary election to make the announcement.

"Our offering is a new beginning of hope for the American people," Wallace said in remarks prepared for a news conference in the Capitol's Senate chamber.

Wallace, who ran third behind President Nixon and Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey as the American Independent party candidate in 1968, said he intended to keep his name on the Florida ballot as a Democratic candidate.

He said Floridians have a "unique opportunity" in choosing from among the 12 Democrats, including Humphrey, nominated to be on the ballot by Secretary of State Richard Stone.

"They can start the grass roots movement to take back the national Democratic party unto themselves. Too long this party has been controlled by the so-called intellectual snobs who feel that big government should control the lives of American citizens from the cradle to the grave," the governor said.

Wallace coupled his 1972 platform with a broadside attack on "those in Congress" also seeking the White House. That includes 8 of the 12 Democrats currently on the Florida ballot.

Wallace also proposed "peace through strength" and military forces "second to none."

He urged "continued withdrawal from Vietnam and we should never again commit American troops to fight a no-win war."

Taxes should be levied on rich foundations now virtually tax exempt and on church-owned commercial property which competes with free enterprise, he said.

Wallace called for "a reduction in taxes for the individual and businesses and industry to be replaced with revenues from those now evading taxes through special laws passed in their special interest."

He said the federal government also should act to bring about "a return to law and order."

Warrant Now Issued For Bombing Suspect

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A federal court issued a warrant today for the arrest of a well-educated AWOL Army private who the FBI says is connected with the planting of bombs in bank safety deposit boxes in three cities.

The warrant obtained by the U.S. attorney's office at the request of the FBI specifically charges Ronald Kaufman, 33, with maliciously attempting to damage and destroy three San Francisco banks.

In Washington, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said Kaufman also is wanted in connection with the planting of bombs at banks in Chicago and New York.

Kaufman was identified, the FBI director said, by fingerprints found on bomb components taken from San Francisco banks.

Because of mysterious letters to the news media, police agencies found bombs Jan. 7 at the banks in three cities. In San Francisco, one bomb had exploded without extensive damage and two others were dismantled before they went off.

Kaufman reportedly holds a Ph.D. degree and has been connected with Students for a Democratic Society.

The FBI director said Kaufman, who re-enlisted in the Army Aug. 10, 1971, under the name "James Edward Jensen," failed to report at Ft. Jackson, S.C., for overseas shipment last Saturday after completing a 30-day leave. He said a fugitive warrant for Kaufman's arrest was issued today at San Francisco and that a bond of $500,000 had been recommended if Kaufman is captured.

The bombs were discovered after news media in several cities received handprinted letters warning that "during July, 1971, nine unusual prototype bombs were planted in different banks across the country."
